For most of the year Chapel Hill is that nice quiet little village that William Meade Prince once called "The Southern Part of Heaven." That's most of the year. Then there are football Saturdays. Those are the days the band strikes up "Here Comes Carolina," and pandemonium breaks loose in our town.

Make no mistake about it, this is football country. The college game is a vibrant part of campus life in Chapel Hill. There is something special about those glorious Saturday afternoons—picnic lunches of fried chicken, pretty coeds in colorful dresses and cheerleaders dancing in the shadows of huge pines and sycamores. And, of course, there are the games, around which all the pageantry evolves.

Carolina fans are particularly excited about the upcoming games this fall. The schedule is difficult, but there are high hopes for a successful season. We invite you to be a part of the magic of Carolina Football in 1976.

Press/Radio/TV

Carolina's football Tar Heels have one of the largest and most enthusiastic press followings in the nation and interest is growing greater every year.

Every daily paper in North Carolina, and many from surrounding states, covers the Tar Heel games in Kenan Stadium. Each Tuesday during the season, many of the newsmen attend a press conference at the Pines Restaurant which features Coach Bill Dooley. Starting time is 12 noon.

Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be secured by contacting Rick Brewer in the Sports Information Office. Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, spouses and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Football Writers Association of America.

There are no Western Union facilities in the press box. The Athletic Department does furnish a number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy. The Carolina Sports Information Office has one telecopier which will be available for sending copy. An operator's fee of $10 per game will charged for its use. This fee will cover the cost of a student assistant staying late to send copy.

It is strongly suggested, however, that if at all possible, newsmen covering games in Kenan Stadium bring their own telecopier. This will allow all copy to be moved more quickly and will alleviate any deadline problems.

Over 60 stations in three states will once again carry the Tar Heel Football Network. The Network is operated by the G. H. Johnston Company in New York City with Richard Frick as the director. Woody Durham, the popular sportscaster at WFMY-TV in Greensboro, will handle the play-by-play.

For the tenth consecutive year, the Bill Dooley Show will be televised across the state of North Carolina each Sunday. Durham serves as emcee on this program.

Ferebee Taylor/Chancellor

The number one man on the Carolina campus—Chancellor N. Ferebee Taylor—is also the number one fan of the football Tar Heels.

Win, lose or draw, Chancellor Taylor moves from his position high in the stands to become the first visitor to the Tar Heel dressing room after every game. He chats individually with the players, congratulating them on their performances.

Being chancellor of one of America's great universities is a busy and often frantic job. Yet Chancellor Taylor finds time to attend most of the major sports events on campus. He also tries to come to as many football practice sessions as his schedule will allow.

"Chancellor Taylor is a firm believer in intercollegiate athletics," says Tar Heel Coach Bill Dooley. "He has given great support to our program. He knows the game well and respects the young men who play it for Carolina."

The Chancellor feels that the Athletic Department is an important part of the total University and expresses a hope that all students will make use of what it offers, either as participants or as spectators.

"At the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, we will continue to strive for excellence in our Athletic Department as we will in all other departments," says the Chancellor.

Chancellor Taylor is a graduate of Carolina, receiving an A.B. in American History in 1942. He was the first Jackson Scholar here (this scholarship was the first four-year grant) and he served as president of Phi Beta Kappa, making straight A's for three consecutive years.

He was president of the University Club, speaker of the Student Legislature and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail.

The Chancellor served in the Navy during World War II and reached the rank of lieutenant. After being released from active duty, he entered the Harvard Law School and received the LL.B. cum laude in 1949.

He then enrolled in Balliol College at Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar, receiving his B.A. in philosophy, politics and economics in 1951. He received his M.A. from Oxford in 1955.

Chancellor Taylor then practiced law in New York City until returning to Carolina in the spring of 1968 as a visiting professor at the UNC Law School.

He was named administrative vice-president of the Consolidated University in 1970 and served in that position until being unanimously selected by the Board of Trustees as the new Chancellor. He replaced J. Carlyle Sitterson.

In his administrative job with the Consolidated University, the Chancellor had served as a legal advisor and had acted as a liaison between the Board of Trustees and its committees.

Since assuming his present position, Chancellor Taylor has placed special emphasis on the public service aspect of the University. Many short courses, workshops and special projects have been organized, serving the entire state of North Carolina and its five-and-a-half-million people, as well as the students and residents of the University community.

Chancellor Taylor is married to the former Louise C. Ellington. They have three daughters—Louise, Sarah, and Martha.

Bill Cobey/Athletic Director

The new director of athletics at the University of North Carolina is Bill Cobey, one of the most respected young administrators in collegiate sports.

Cobey was appointed athletic director last January after Homer Rice resigned to become the athletic director and head football coach at Rice University.

The man whom Chancellor Ferebee Taylor picked to head the Carolina athletic program is a regular spectator at most Tar Heel sports events. It makes no difference whether the sport is football, field hockey or soccer; if the Tar Heels are playing, Cobey is usually on the scene.

The fact that he is a fan of all Carolina teams is certainly one of the big reasons his selection by the Chancellor was hailed by all members of the UNC Athletic Department.

It was only after consulting with over 40 people connected with the Carolina athletic program that Chancellor Taylor made his decision.

"There is a clear consensus that Bill Cobey will make an outstanding director of athletics," said the Chancellor. "He is widely respected for his integrity, his knowledge of intercollegiate athletics and his performance as Homer Rice's assistant director in the past few years."

Rice was very pleased with the Chancellor's nomination.

"Bill was my choice from the very beginning to be the new athletic director," said Rice. "If I were to draw up a job description for the responsibilities of this position, Bill would fill every category."

Cobey has been interviewed by other schools over the last few years for high athletic positions. He says it has long been an ambition of his to be an athletic director at a major university.

Cobey's interest in sports came quite naturally. His father was Sunny Jim Tatum's assistant athletic director at the University of Maryland. When Tatum left College Park to become the head football coach at Carolina in 1956, Cobey's father was named his successor.

Even today Cobey gives his father and Tatum credit for what he has accomplished in athletics. He also says Rice has been a tremendous influence on him.

Like Rice, Cobey plans to stay out of the spotlight while getting his job done.

"The attention should go to our athletes and coaches," he says. "Administrators don't need to get any fanfare.

"Our goal will be to carry on the great tradition Carolina has had in intercollegiate athletics. We will work towards maintaining a strong, overall program."

Cobey, 36, is only the fourth man to head the Carolina athletic program.

The late Bob Fetzer was Carolina's first athletic director, serving from 1922 until 1951. He was followed by Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson who held the post until his retirement in May, 1968. Rice succeeded Erickson the following January.

Cobey is currently in his ninth year of work at the University. He had held three different and important posts before becoming athletic director. Most recently, he had served as assistant athletic director for promotions and finance. In that role, he was Rice's chief assistant.

Cobey came to Chapel Hill in 1968 as the academic counselor for Bill Dooley's football team. In that position, he advised Tar Heel players on their academic work, served as a counselor for them in any personal problems they might have had and also was Dooley's administrative assistant.

In 1971 Cobey became assistant athletic director for operations at the University. He was directly responsible for the running of Kenan Stadium and Carmichael Auditorium on the days of football and basketball games. He also worked closely with Athletic Business Manager Vernon Crook in matters dealing with finances.

Cobey is a graduate of Emory University in Atlanta (1962). He received a masters degree in business from the University of Pennsylvania. After a brief time of working with the Dow Chemical Company, Cobey returned to school at the University of Pittsburgh and earned a masters degree in education.

The Cobey Family——Bill and Nancy with Cathy and Billy

During his time at Pittsburgh, Cobey took part in a graduate teaching internship program there. He was a member of the football staff at West Mifflin North High School and taught physical education in the public schools.

Since coming to Chapel Hill Cobey has been very active in community affairs. He is currently President of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro YMCA and a former assistant campaign chairman of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro United Fund. He is a member of the East Chapel Hill Rotary Club.

Cobey is married to the former Nancy Sullivan of College Park, Md. They have two children, Cathy (11) and Billy (four). The Cobeys are members of the University United Methodist Church.

Bill Dooley

The man who has put Atlantic Coast Conference football in the national spotlight is Bill Dooley, head coach at the University of North Carolina.

Dooley, now beginning his 10th year at the Tar Heel helm, has guided Carolina to its greatest heights in football history and, in the process, has made the ACC one of the most competitive football leagues in America.

In the nine years before Dooley came to Chapel Hill, ACC teams had been to only five bowl games. In Dooley's nine years at Carolina, the conference has had 13 teams in post-season play.

Dooley sparked this upgrading of football in the league by building a powerhouse at Carolina. He began winning with such regularity that other schools in the conference had to put more into their programs just to keep up with the Tar Heels.

Former Virginia Coach Don Lawrence summed it up best when he said: "The entire Atlantic Coast Conference is tougher now than it has ever been. I hate to admit it, but Bill Dooley is responsible for it all. He came into this league and worked around the clock to build a fine program. Now everybody else has started working overtime to catch up. Dooley turned ACC football around."

Building a sound program at Carolina took a lot of hard work. But hard work is nothing to Bill Dooley. In fact, he seems to thrive on it.

When he came to Chapel Hill prior to the 1967 season, Dooley vowed to build a winner. However, he also said it would take time. His timetable proved to be a short one.

Caught with slim material in his first two seasons, his teams won only five games. Then came a 5-5 break-even season in 1969 and Dooley's program was on its way. Since then, except for off-seasons in 1973 and 1975, Dooley has had his teams nationally-ranked and in bowl games every year.

His success in just nine years is amazing. He has taken the Tar Heels to four bowl games and his 1972 team had Carolina's winningest season ever, posting an 11-1 record.

Carolina's post-season appearances came in the 1970 Peach Bowl, the 1971 Gator Bowl and the Sun Bowl in 1972 and 1974. No coach in the history of the conference has taken more ACC teams to bowls than Dooley.

In a stretch of games between 1970 and 1972, Carolina won a record 15 consecutive ACC games and two league championships.

Dooley now has 52 career victories at Carolina and is closing in on Carl Snavely's all-time high of 59. In fact, only Snavely, a member of the Football Hall of Fame, can rival Dooley's success in Chapel Hill. King Carl guided the Tar Heels to three bowl games in the late 1940's.

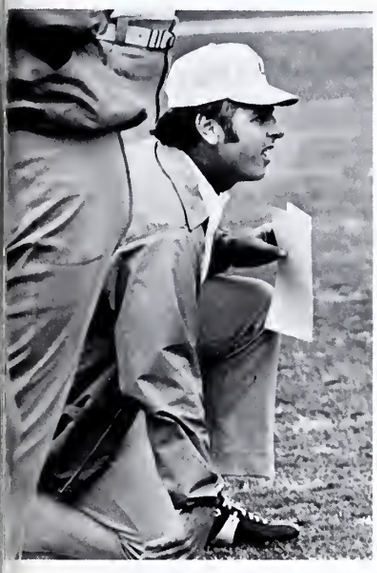
Since Dooley has had four classes of his own players at Carolina, his teams have won 42, lost 27 and tied one. That's a percentage of .607.

His success here has been shared by the people around him. Three of his former aides—Lee Hayley, Clyde Walker and Bill Cobey—have gone on to jobs as athletic directors. Hayley is at Auburn, Walker at Kansas and Cobey is the new athletic director here at Carolina. Two former staff members, Bobby Collins and Bud Moore, are now head coaches at Southern Mississippi and Kansas.

Three of Dooley's players have been consensus All-Americas—tailback Don McCauley in 1970, guard Ron Rusnak in 1972 and guard Ken Huff in 1974. No other coach in the history of the conference has had that many consensus All-Americas.

Since 1970 Carolina has had more All-ACC players than any other school in the league. Since Dooley came to Chapel Hill, Carolina has produced the ACC Player of the Year three times. That's more than any other school in the conference in that period.

Head Coach



Dooley with four of his NFL players – (from l to r) James Betterson of Broncos, Don McCauley of Colts, Sammy Johnson of 49ers and Ken Huff of Colts.

Dooley admits that being a head coach deprives him of the biggest fun in coaching.

"What I miss most is getting on my hands and knees and giving individual instruction to the players," he says. "A head coach is busy directing the overall program and has to leave that to the assistants. I miss it because I always liked to get in the trenches with the men."

Dooley played in the trenches himself when he attended Mississippi State in the 1950's. He was an all-star guard at State and was the outstanding lineman in the Shrine Bowl his senior season.

Following graduation, Dooley went into the coaching field. He coached first as an assistant at Mississippi State, serving as line coach for two years and head freshman coach for three seasons. During his three years as coach of the freshmen, Dooley's teams never lost to Ole Miss, the biggest rival.

Dooley went to George Washington in 1961 under former Carolina star player Jim Camp. He stayed there for two seasons and then returned to his alma mater in 1963, where as offensive line coach, he helped guide the Maroons into the Liberty Bowl.

When Vince Dooley was named the head coach at Georgia in 1964, his first act was to name Bill, his brother, as head of the offense. Vince and Bill had been extremely close while growing up in Mobile, Ala., and although their college and coaching careers had taken them in different paths, it was almost inevitable that they would wind up together.

The two brothers restored Georgia to football prominence. The Bulldogs went to bowl games two of the three years Bill was on the staff, compiling a record of 22-9-1.

Dooley learned his lessons well in the rugged Southeastern Conference because he has been beating teams from that league with great regularity since coming to Carolina. In 12 games, Carolina had whipped SEC foes eight times. Two of the losses were in bowl games—to Georgia in the 1971 Gator Bowl and to Mississippi State in the 1974 Sun Bowl. That game with Georgia marked a first in football—brothers opposing each other as coaches in bowl competition.

Dooley believes in hard-nosed football and will tell you, "As a team, you're nothing if you can't run the football on an opponent. You've got to be able to knock people down and run over them. It's a game for men. You've got to out-tough people to beat them."

While Bill is a tough-minded coach, you would never be able to tell that if you met him off the field. He's an extremely likeable young man who mixes well with people from all walks of life. Some of his closest friends are Carolina professors and administrators.

Dooley is a tremendous hit with Carolina fans. They give him standing ovations at Tar Heel clubs and stand in line to shake his hand and wish him well.

"One of the greatest things about coaching here is the sensational and enthusiastic support we get from our fans, alumni, faculty members and students," says Dooley. "That makes the coaching staff work even harder to field a competitive football team of which our university can be proud."

Dooley is in constant demand as a speaker and he lectures at clinics across the country. His summer football camp for youngsters on the Carolina campus is a tremendous success.

When he's not working (and that's not often), Dooley can be found hitting a tennis ball or casting for fish. He's very good at both sports and is just as competitive as he is on the football field.

Somehow, Dooley also finds time to get involved with community and state projects. During the past year he served as honorary chairman of the state's Special Olympics.

Prospectus

A veteran offense, featuring All-America candidate Mike Voight, and an improved defense give the North Carolina Tar Heels high hopes of bouncing back this fall from last year's disappointing season.

Carolina, which had been to bowl games four of the previous five years, slumped to a 3-7-1 record last fall. Inconsistency, a lack of depth and a rash of injuries were the big reasons for the Tar Heels' poor showing.

However, Coach Bill Dooley, beginning his 10th year at the Carolina helm, believes his team will be vastly improved this season.

"We feel we have a very good nucleus of returning players," says Dooley. "I think we're capable of having a fine football team and being a contender in the Atlantic Coast Conference championship race.

"It's difficult to make any predictions about our record, however, because we again face an extremely difficult schedule."

Carolina has a number of outstanding players returning from last year's team. Heading that list of returnees, of course, is Voight, the brilliant tailback from Chesapeake, Va. who was the ACC Player of the Year last fall. Mike ran for 1,250 yards in 10 games and scored 11 touchdowns. He finished sixth nationally in rushing.

Voight goes into his senior season with career totals of 2,564 yards rushing and 144 points. He could be the all-time Carolina and ACC leader in both categories when he graduates.

If Carolina enjoys a successful season, at least two other players could join Voight as national all-star candidates. They are center Mark Cantrell, one of the most consistent linemen in Tar Heel history, and safety Ronny Johnson, a brilliant open-field tackler.

Other Carolina players who figure to be strong contenders for All-ACC honors include nose guard Roger Shonosky, defensive tackle Rod Broadway, cornerback Russ Conley, defensive end Bill Perdue, offensive tackles Tommy Burkett and Mark Griffin and tight end Brooks Williams.

Offensively, Carolina has the potential to be an explosive team. There is good experience with nine returning starters. Some young players are going to have to develop quickly to provide backup help, however.

The interior line, which returns intact, should be outstanding. Cantrell may be the best center in the country and both Burkett and Griffin are considered good professional prospects. Sophomore Mike Salzano, one of the Tar Heels' top young players, and senior Craig Funk give Carolina a fine pair of guards.

Williams and Mike Corbin are set at tight end and Walker Lee, the top reserve last season, should be the split end.

In the backfield, Voight will start at tailback and speedy Mel Collins has the inside track on the wingback position. The fullback should be either senior Brian Smith or sophomore Bob Loomis. Another key player in the backfield could be transfer student Carey Casey. He is playing behind Collins at wingback.

Johnny Stratton ended spring practice as the number one quarterback. He saw only limited action last fall behind the graduated Billy Paschall. Junior Johnny Elam and sophomores Bernie Menapace and P. J. Gay could challenge Stratton for that spot this season. Another possibility is Matt Kupec, who was injured all of last year.

Defensively, Carolina appears to be improved over last season. There is good talent on defense, but the Tar Heels must play with more consistency than they did a year ago.

Perdue, Broadway and Shonosky head a defensive front that will also include tackle Dee Hardison and end Ken Sheets. All five of these players looked very good in the spring.

The secondary could be the best Dooley has had in his time at Carolina. Johnson may be the finest safety in the South and Conley is a four-year starter with exceptional ability. Alan Caldwell, a reserve last season, and newcomer Francis Winters are the other likely starters in the defensive backfield.

Carolina's biggest question mark on defense is at linebacker. There are some talented players at this position, but not much experience. Ronnie Dowdy and Mike Finn were the starters at the end of the spring drills. They will be pushed for those jobs this fall by Chuck Austin, Mike Duffy, Dave Simmons and Tony Mills. If Bobby Gay can come back from a knee injury, it would be a big boost to the linebacking corp.

Elam, who handled the punting last year, and placekicker Tom Biddle give the Tar Heels experience in the kicking game.

"I'm excited about the upcoming season," says Dooley. "Our players have a good attitude and know we are capable of having a good football team.

"We have two major challenges—bouncing back from last year's disappointing season and facing another tough schedule."

The Tar Heel schedule is indeed rugged. Carolina opens its season against Miami of Ohio, which has lost only one time in its last 34 games. Then comes a bowl team, Florida, in the second game. Other non-conference opponents are Northwestern, Army, Missouri and East Carolina. The Tar Heels face ACC foes N. C. State, Wake Forest, Clemson, Virginia and Duke.

Goal Line Analysis

OFFENSE

ENDS

Carolina's front-line offensive ends should be more than adequate. However, the backups do not have much experience. Brooks Williams should be a strong contender for All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors at tight end. He's a great receiver and has shown fine improvement as a blocker. Mike Corbin is an excellent number two man at this position. He has a lot of experience. However, none of the other reserves have ever played this position in a varsity game. Newcomer Tom Pettigrew and Kirt Wilson, shifted from the defense, are the top contenders for the third tight end spot. Walker Lee, the number one reserve last fall, will start at split end. His chief competition in the spring came from Jim Rouse, a true sophomore.

TACKLES

Tommy Burkett and Mark Griffin give Carolina one of the best pair of tackles in America. Both have started for the last year and a half. They have good experience and outstanding ability. Both could contend for all-star honors. Burkett is the biggest man on the Tar Heel squad and showed great improvement during the last half of the 1975 season. Griffin has good quickness and is one of Carolina's most consistent blockers. Top backup appears to be Bob Hukill, a true sophomore who showed good promise in the spring. Another impressive newcomer is sophomore Carl Hackley, who had a fine spring. Other players who are in the picture at this position are Billy Dunn, Billy Guthrie, Wilbert Mitchell, Kevin Nolan and Mark Wright.

GUARDS

Carolina has an excellent pair of guards in veteran Craig Funk and sophomore Mike Salzano. Funk is a fifth-year player and one of the most experienced linemen in the ACC. He doesn't have tremendous size, but he's quick and has a lot of savvy. Salzano is one of the most promising young linemen in America. He started the last half of the 1975 season and did a good job. He has the ability to be a super-star in the future. John Rushing, who was one of the biggest surprises of the spring, appears to be the number one reserve. He's a true sophomore, but has a lot of potential. Danny Hamrick and Ron Fowler should battle for the other top reserve slot.

CENTERS

This is one of the best manned positions on the Carolina team. Mark Cantrell gives the Tar Heels one of the premier offensive linemen in America. He should be a top contender for national all-star honors. Mark may have been the most consistent Carolina player last season. He never graded under 70 per cent in a single game. Scott Davison is an excellent backup. Carolina coaches say he would probably start for most teams in the ACC. He is experienced and a hustler. Behind these two are inexperienced players like Larry Leonard, Phil Ragazzo, Jim Andrews and Tommy Smith. They should battle for the deep snapper's job.

BACKS

The return of three starters from last season should again make the Tar Heel backfield an explosive one. The top returnee, of course, is Mike Voight, the ACC Player of the Year last fall and a strong candidate for All-America this year. Voight should break all of the ACC and Carolina rushing records held by Don McCauley and finish among the all-time national rushing leaders. Doug Banks, who missed all of his freshman season with an injury, and true sophomore Terence Burrell are capable, but inexperienced backups. Brian Smith and Bob Loomis, who split time at fullback last season, will again fight for that starting spot. Smith is an experienced veteran and Loomis is a true soph. Speedy Mel Collins is a big-play man at wingback. He could join Voight as an All-ACC candidate. Junior college transfer Carey Casey is the number two man at wingback and could be one of the most exciting players in the conference. Johnny Stratton ended spring practice as the number one quarterback. He doesn't have much experience, but he has a lot of ability and is a leader. He could be challenged for that spot this fall by P. J. Gay, Johnny Elam, Bernie Menapace or Matt Kupec.

DEFENSE

ENDS

Veteran Bill Perdue and sophomore Ken Sheets give Carolina a good pair of starting defensive ends. Perdue is a senior and figures to be one of the best defenders in the ACC. He's also expected to provide leadership for the Tar Heel defense. Sheets played very well for a freshman last year and appears to have a good future. Stan Lancaster, Dwight Ange, Jeff Jones and Van Lippencott will see action in reserve roles. Lancaster and Ange played some last year and did outstanding jobs in the spring. Jones and Lippencott are new to this position, but show good promise.

TACKLES

Carolina returns both starters from last season, Rod Broadway and Dee Hardison. Both players have tremendous ability and the potential to be big stars in the ACC. Broadway is a senior who has started for the last two years. He has size, speed and quickness. Hardison, a junior, started last season and then had a great spring practice. He could be one of the most improved players in the league this fall. The reserves include youngsters Steve Junkmann and T. K. McDaniels and veterans Brian Hughes and Chip Smith. Junkmann and McDaniels made a lot of progress in the spring. Hughes and Smith have been plagued by injuries throughout their careers. If they are healthy this fall, they could battle Junkmann and McDaniels for playing time.

GUARDS

Roger Shonosky and Bunn Rhames give Carolina a good one-two punch at this position. Shonosky played very well last season and was voted Carolina's best defensive lineman. He's quick and aggressive. Rhames played a great deal as a freshman. Once he gets more experience, he could develop into an outstanding player. He's strong and quick. Duke Thompson, a senior shifted from tackle, is the number three man here. Sophomore Tom Massey, who played linebacker as a freshman, is another possibility.

LINEBACKERS

A lack of experience is a major problem at linebacker. Bobby Gay, who started last season and did a good job, is the most experienced linebacker. However, his status for the fall is uncertain because of a knee injury. If he's healthy, it would be a big boost to the linebacking corp. The starters at the end of the spring were Ronnie Dowdy and Mike Finn. Dowdy saw some action in a reserve role last season. Finn is a former tight end who was shifted to the defense late last year. He has been in only one game at this new position. Both are talented, however, and should do good jobs. Chuck Austin, a starter at defensive end last year, could challenge them for a starting spot this fall. Senior Mike Duffy also should get a lot of playing time this season. Tony Mills, switched from fullback, and sophs Dave Simmons, Garry Rudolph and Kevin Norton are other possibilities.

BACKS

Carolina's defensive backfield could be the best of the Bill Dooley coaching era this fall. Two seniors, safety Ronny Johnson and cornerback Russ Conley, are the big reasons for this feeling. Both are potential all-stars. Johnson is great open-field tackler and a leader. Conley has speed, quickness and experience. Russ is beginning his fourth year as a secondary starter. The other starting spots will probably go to Francis Winters at cornerback and Alan Caldwell at safety. They're young, but have good ability. The top reserves should be senior John Daw and sophomores Bobby Cale, Ken Mack and Max McGee. If Jeff Caldwell is fully recovered from an injury, he will also get playing time. Among the other leading candidates are veterans Scott Batchelor and Jeff Head.

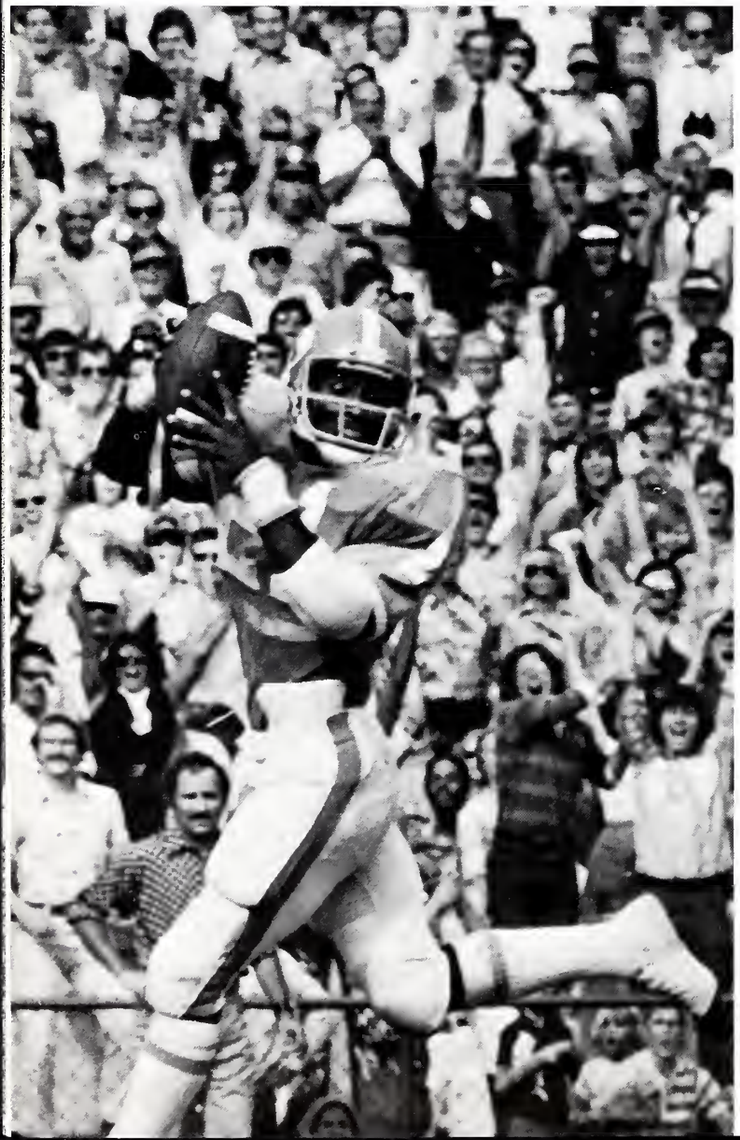
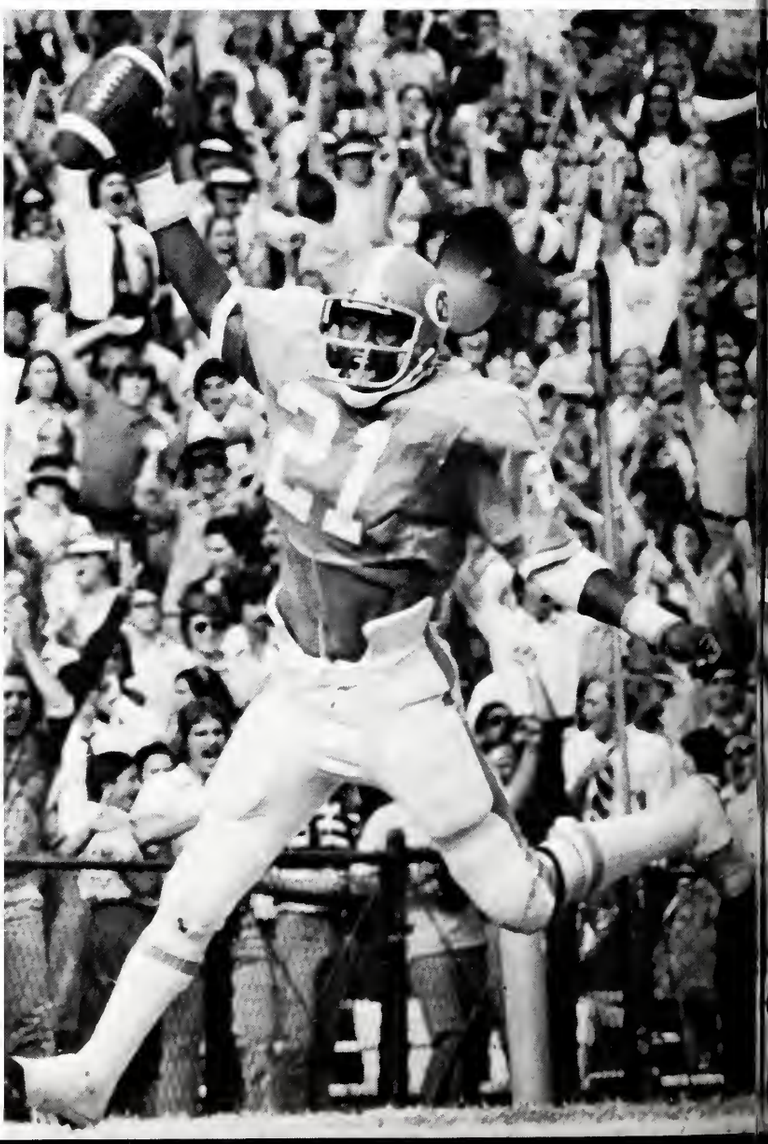
Carolina Style Football





Tar Heel Nicknames

From Choo Choo Justice to Goo Goo Gantt to Boom Boom Betterson, Carolina football players have always had colorful nicknames. This year's Tar Heel team is certainly no exception.

Coining nicknames is an ancient pastime for football players, probably dating back to the first time a 135-pound halfback showed up for practice and immediately became Runt.

Carolina's past is filled with players who were better known by their nicknames than their given ones. In addition to Justice, Gantt and Betterson, there have been Monk McDonald, Rabbit Bonner, Icky Garrett, Rip Hawkins, Snuffy Sternweiss, Sweet Jim Lalanne and many others.

Today's nicknames run along the same lines at Carolina. Many are derivations of last names, some match physical appearance and others reflect personality. A few don't make any sense at all, but stick anyway. Some of the nicknames were given by players, while coaches made up others.

Tackle Mark Griffin is Zipper because he's built like a zipper, straight up and down.

Tailback Mike Voight is Space Cowboy or Space Cadet or simply Spaceman. His teammates say Voight is a little spacey.

Tight End Brooks Williams is Snatch because of his great pass catching ability. The 6-4½ Williams is also known as Stalker.

Tackle Tommy Burkett is Big Tom since he's the biggest man on the team.

Defensive end Bill Perdue is called Frog because he has a big upper body and small legs.

Speedy Mel Collins is Rocket Man.

Alan Caldwell is known as Keystone by the Carolina coaches because he moves as fast as the old Keystone Cops. His teammates just call him A. C.

J. C. or Country is Jeff Caldwell.

Tom Catafygiotu is Cat Man because no one can pronounce his last name.

Defensive tackle Rod Broadway is Funky, as in the dance. Steve Junkmann is Junky. So it's possible for the Tar Heel tackles to be Funky and Junky.

For some very mysterious reasons, center Mark Cantrell is either Chipper or Lumpy.

Mike Corbin is Calhoun, Johnny Stratton is Monty, Boyd Pearson is Doc and Mike Duffy is simply The Kid.

Linebacker Tony Mills is Bull and center Scott Davison is Bear because they are so big.

Stan Lancaster is known as Redbird because of the color of his hair.

Defensive tackle Dee Hardison is Peanut and quarterback Johnny Elam is Train.

Safety Ronny Johnson is Juice because he's fast like O. J. Simpson.

Defensive end Jeff Jones is the Praying Mantis for reasons no one will divulge.

T. K. McDaniels is called Tommy the Pinball Wizard because he is a look-alike for Roger Daltrey who starred in the movie, "Tommy."

Quarterback Clyde Christensen is Clyde the Glide.

Linebacker Dave Simmons is Lollipop Man since that is his CB handle.

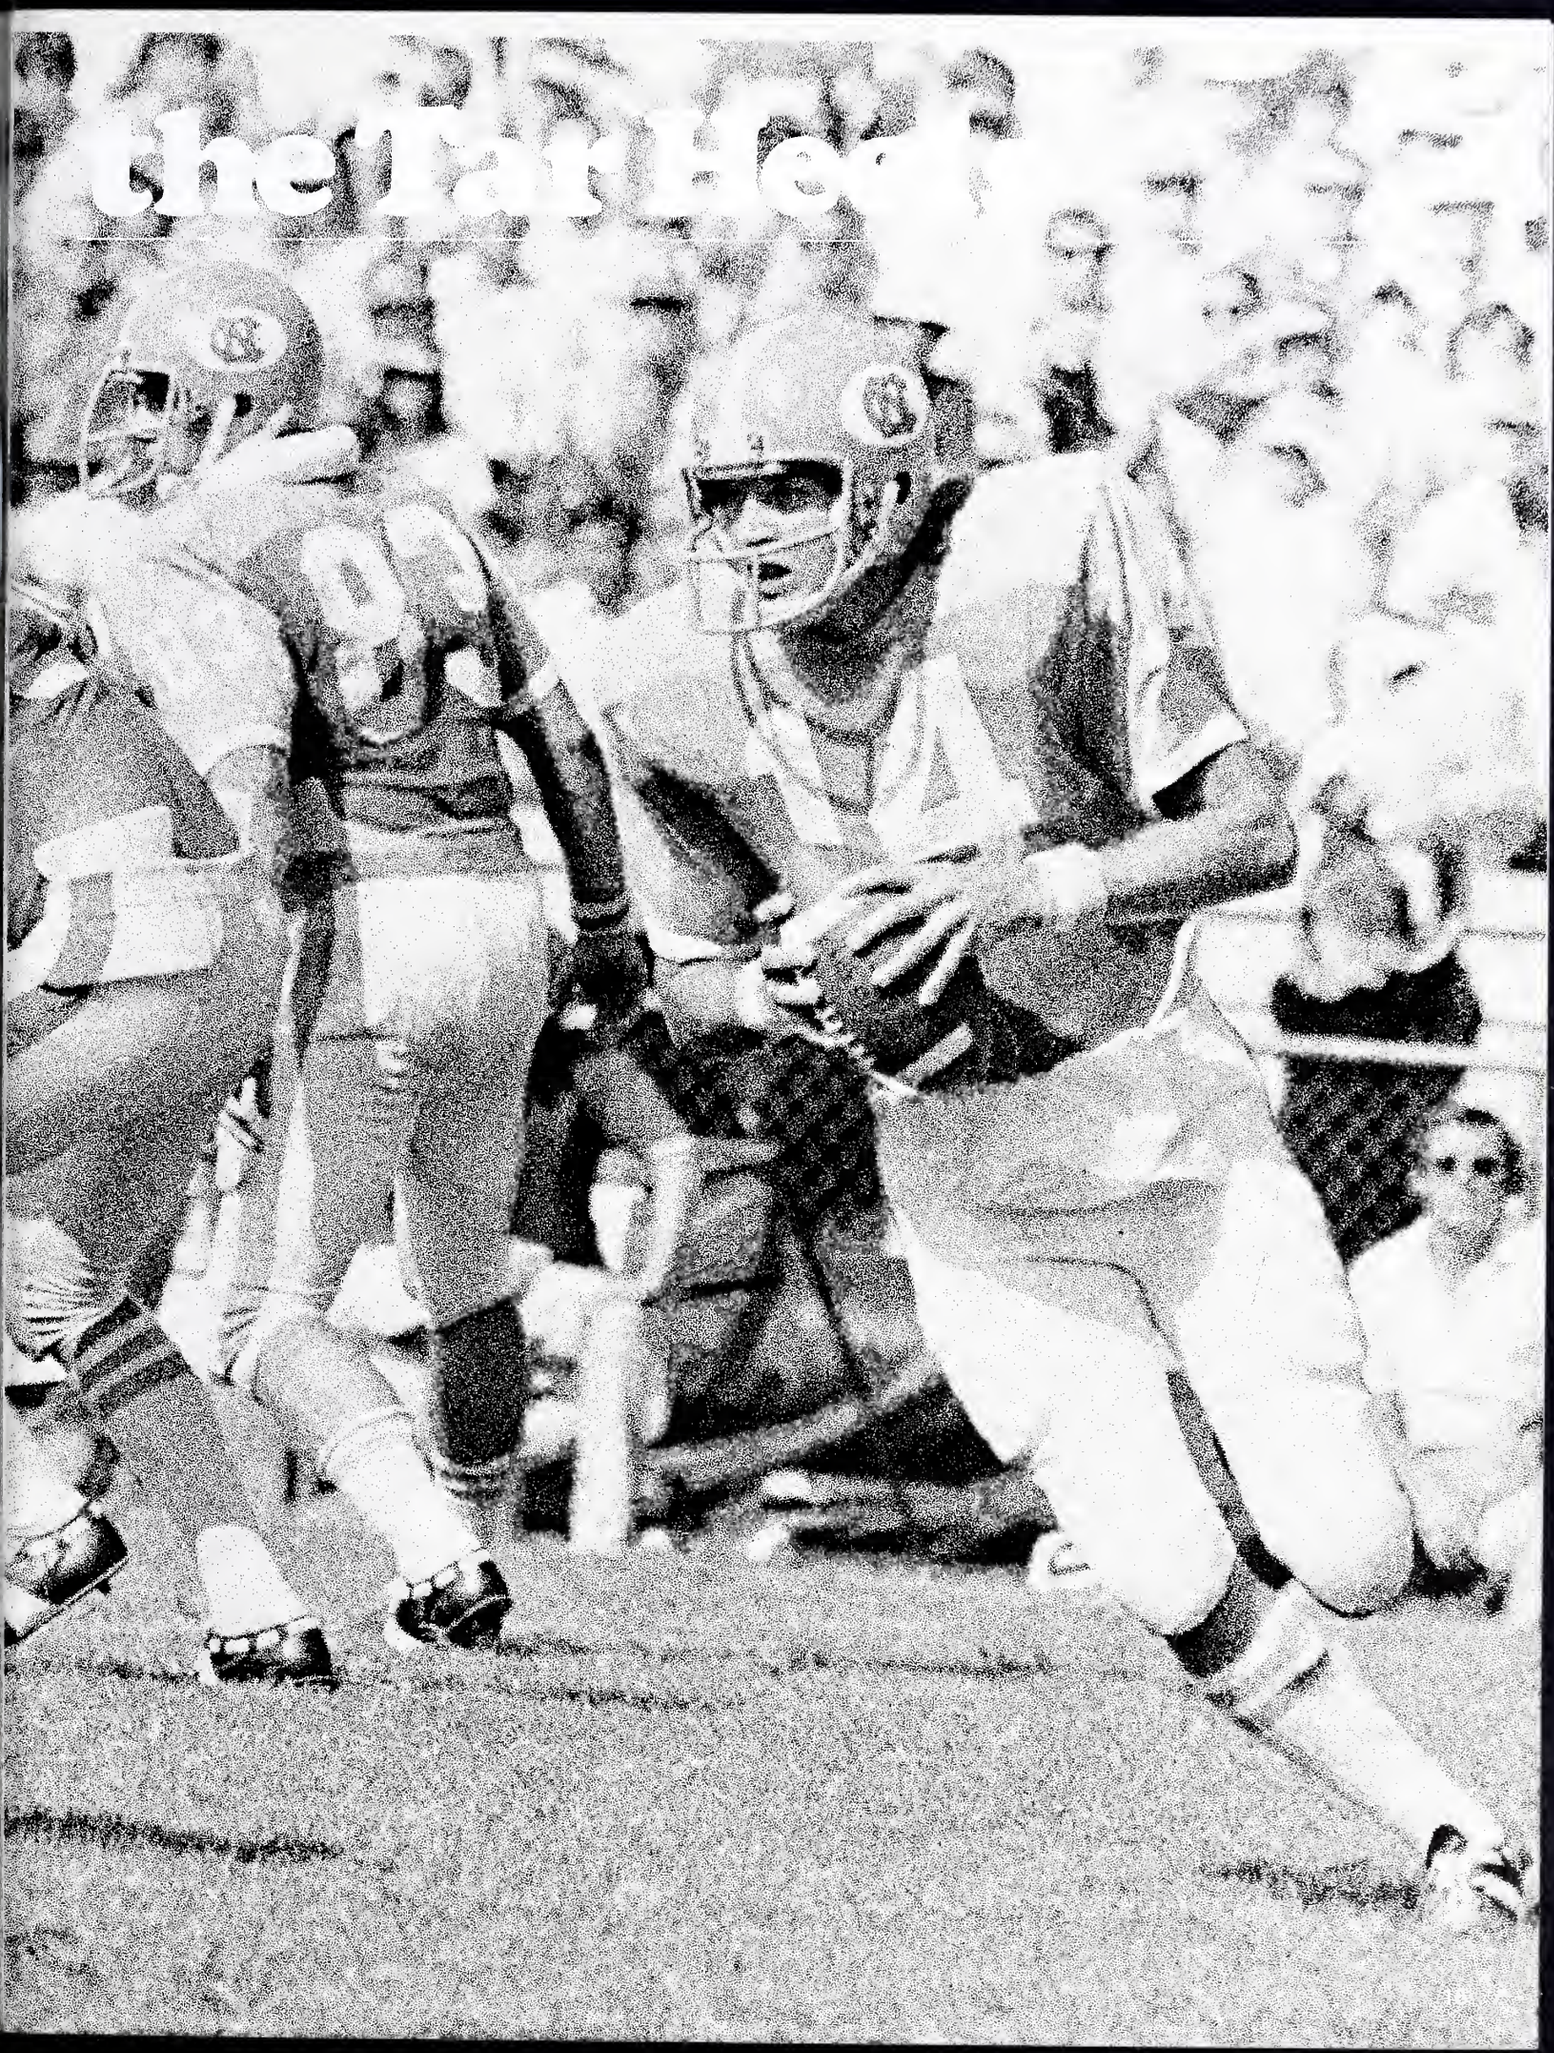
And the Carolina coaches?

Well, the players have given them nicknames, too. But, it is best they remain known only to the Tar Heels themselves.



Shenandoah

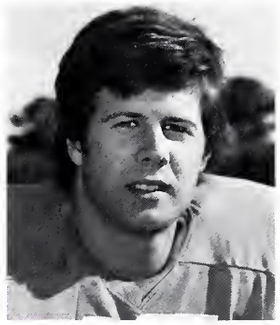
Quarterbacks

10 CLYDE CHRISTENSEN
5-9¼, 180, Junior
Fresno, Calif.

A transfer from Fresno City Junior College . . . Had a good spring . . . Led his team to 15-12 victory in spring game . . . Completed five of eight passes for 45 yards . . . Scored on a two-yard run and on a two-point conversion . . . Has a good arm and quick feet . . . Runs the option very well . . . Once he becomes more knowledgeable about the Carolina system, he has a chance to make a good contribution . . . Will probably be used mainly in a backup role this fall . . . One of the better tennis players on the team.

JOHN ELAM 18
6-0, 208, Junior
Charlotte, N. C.

Saw limited action at quarterback last fall . . . Threw only six passes, completing three for 34 yards and a touchdown . . . He's now in the race for the starting quarterback job . . . Missed all of spring practice because of a knee injury . . . An intense competitor . . . Has an excellent football mind . . . He's not flashy, but is a good solid all-around quarterback . . . Split quarterbacking duties with Bernie Menapace for the 1974 junior varsity . . . An excellent athlete . . . When injuries hit Carolina late last year, John moved to linebacker for the final game against Duke . . . Also handled the Tar Heel punting last fall . . . Averaged 40.7 yards on 63 kicks . . . Best punt of the year was a 57-yarder against Notre Dame . . . Averaged 44.4 yards on eight punts against the Irish . . . Has a prototype leg . . . Hangs the ball well and that helps coverage . . . Elam is also an outstanding golfer . . . Won the Pinehurst Collegiate Tournament last spring and led amateur qualifying for the 1975 Kemper Open . . . John's dad was a star player at Appalachian State.



15 P. J. GAY
6-0, 181, Sophomore
Sanford, N. C.

Here is one of the best young players in the Atlantic Coast Conference . . . Has tremendous athletic ability . . . P. J. has unlimited capabilities as a quarterback . . . He's a good passer and a leader . . . Also one of the fastest players on the squad . . . Played well on last year's junior varsity team . . . Completed 37 of 72 passes for 541 yards and four touchdowns in four games . . . Also ran for 75 yards on 38 carries . . . Scored one touchdown and threw for three more in win over a touring team from Mexico . . . Played in only one varsity game, throwing three incomplete passes . . . P. J. had a good spring before being sidelined with a leg injury . . . Is fully recovered and played on Carolina's summer baseball team . . . He's a brilliant defensive centerfielder and an excellent base-runner . . . Quarterbacked two state championship high school teams at Sanford . . . His father was his prep coach . . . High school All-America.

MATT KUPEC 12
6-0, 181, Freshman
Syosset, N. Y.

A bright, young prospect with great natural ability . . . He's the brother of Chris Kupec who set Carolina, ACC and NCAA passing records in 1974 for the Tar Heels . . . Reminds people of his brother in both appearance and style of play . . . Sustained a knee injury in pre-season practice last fall and missed his entire freshman season . . . Got a hardship ruling, however, and still has four years of eligibility . . . Went through all of spring practice, but did not take part in contact work . . . Should be 100 per cent this fall . . . A heady quarterback . . . Very talented passer . . . Improved his footwork and his ability to run the offense in the spring . . . Prep All-America . . . Matt is ambidexterous . . . He passes right-handed, but shoots left-handed on the basketball court . . . Good high school basketball player.

16 BERNIE MENAPACE
6-0, 190, Sophomore
Sterling, Va.

An excellent runner for a quarterback . . . Has tremendous quickness . . . Very tough physically . . . Worked hard in the off-season to improve his passing and has done so . . . Was in the race for the backup quarterback job last fall before being sidelined with a foot injury . . . Missed the whole season, but was given an extra year of eligibility . . . Split time with Johnny Elam on the 1974 junior varsity team . . . An exceptional athlete, Bernie could be used as a place-kicker this fall . . . Has a strong leg for kickoffs and long field goals . . . Missed all of spring practice while playing baseball . . . Hit .247 and tied for the team lead in RBI's with 18 . . . Played first base and caught . . . A good left-handed hitter . . . A national punt-pass-kick champion as a kid.

JOHNNY STRATTON 14
5-11, 172, Junior
Salisbury, N. C.

Carolina's number one quarterback going into the fall . . . Had a great spring . . . While the other quarterback contenders missed valuable practice time, Johnny was turning in strong performances . . . Completed seven of 10 passes in spring game and scored two touchdowns . . . Saw only limited action last season, completing two of six passes for 25 yards and gaining 13 yards on six carries . . . Scored on a two-point conversion against William and Mary . . . Has a good football mind and knows the Tar Heel system well . . . His execution is very good . . . Doesn't make many mistakes . . . Has worked hard to improve his passing . . . Had an outstanding freshman year three seasons ago and then was red-shirted . . . His knowledge and three years of experience make him a good leader . . . As a prep star at Boyden High, Johnny was the Parade Magazine All-America quarterback . . . His father is the athletic director and former football coach at Catawba College . . . Stratton is a Morehead Scholar . . . Dean's List student in Business Administration.

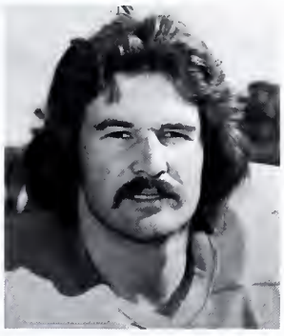
Halfbacks



34 DOUG BANKS
5-11¼, 193, Freshman
Maysville, N. C.

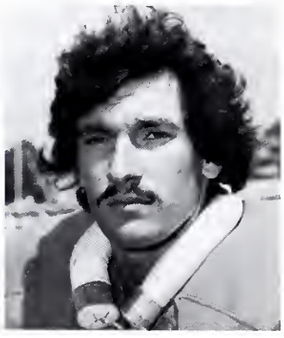
Contender for the backup tailback spot . . . Very talented, but lacks experience . . . Sustained an ankle injury last season and missed all of his freshman year . . . Got a hardship ruling, however, and still has four years of eligibility . . . Could be a back in the mold of other star Carolina tailbacks . . . Has great balance . . . Runs well in traffic . . . Has quick feet . . . Good upper body strength . . . Got a lot of work in the spring . . . Gained 49 yards on 13 carries in the spring game . . . Appears to have a great future.

TERENCE BURRELL 33
6-0½, 216, Sophomore
Williamsburg, Va.

A young player with great potential . . . Terence was the leading rusher on the junior varsity last season . . . Gained 430 yards on 80 carries, a 5.4 yards-per-carry average . . . Scored five touchdowns and added two two-point conversions . . . Ran for 154 yards against Duke jayvees and 136 against a touring team from Mexico . . . Got a lot of work in the spring . . . Gained 69 yards on 19 carries in spring game . . . He's a bullish runner . . . Tough to stop inside . . . His main drawback right now is a lack of experience.

24 CAREY CASEY
6-0½, 195, Junior
Salem, Va.

A junior college transfer who should see immediate action this fall . . . Carey came to Carolina from Northeast Oklahoma and had a brilliant spring . . . Voted the outstanding offensive player in the spring game . . . Running behind Mel Collins at wingback, although he could play tailback as well . . . In fact, he's a versatile athlete who could play five or six different positions for the Tar Heels . . . Has great speed and good hands . . . Tremendous quickness . . . Could be a big-play man in the Carolina offense . . . An exciting runner, he's a dangerous outside threat . . . He's active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.



TOM CATAFYGIOTU 40
5-10½, 175, Junior
Smithfield, N. C.

Came out on his own two years ago and won a scholarship . . . A star high school running-back, Tom was shifted to defensive back at Carolina . . . Was moved back to offense last fall . . . Because he lacked experience, Tom saw some action with the junior varsity . . . Gained 60 yards during the jayvee season on 12 carries . . . Has good balance and is a tough short-yardage runner . . . Could see action this fall on the specialty teams . . . Tom is a pre-med student and wants to be a doctor . . . He's the pitcher for the football team's intramural softball team.

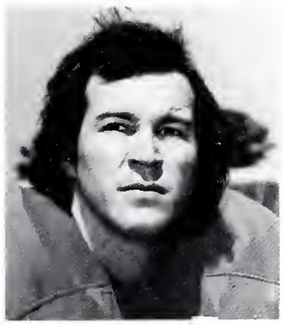
21 MEL COLLINS
5-8, 172, Junior
Fairfax, Va.

One of the most exciting players in the ACC when he gets his hands on the football . . . Mel is capable of going all the way anytime he touches it . . . Started most of last season at wingback and is set at that position again this fall . . . Caught 20 passes for 321 yards and three touchdowns last season . . . Averaged 16.1 yards-per-catch . . . Had 25 carries from scrimmage for 111 yards, one touchdown and a 4.4 yards-per-carry average . . . Has both quickness and speed . . . His teammates call him Rocket Man . . . Had one of his best days last year at Virginia . . . Caught four passes for 104 yards and scored twice against the Cavaliers . . . One of those touchdowns came on a sensational 57-yard pass play . . . His 39-yard touchdown catch was one of the big plays in Carolina's close loss to Notre Dame . . . Mel has shown good improvement as a blocker at wingback . . . Could also be used at tailback or split end . . . He is a dangerous punt returner . . . Was the only ACC player to return a kick for a touchdown in 1974, bringing a punt back 42 yards for a score against Wake Forest . . . Picked as the outstanding high school player in Virginia by the Washington Touchdown Club after his senior year at Woodson . . . Also selected by Washington Post as the metropolitan area's top offensive player.

47 JOHN WYNN
5-8, 167, Sophomore
Ahoskie, N. C.

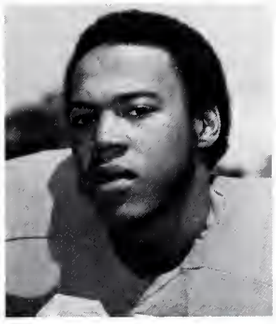
A walk-on who was the starting wingback on last year's junior varsity team . . . A good, tough athlete . . . Doesn't have great size, but always gives a good effort . . . Has good hands and made some unbelievable catches during spring practice . . . Good blocker who wants to learn . . . Probably a year away from making a big contribution.

Fullbacks



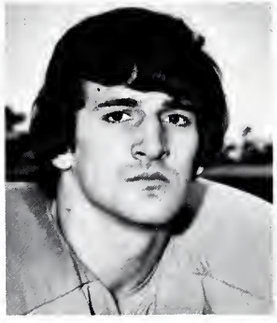
44 MIKE VOIGHT
6-0, 204, Senior
Chesapeake, Va.

Here's one of the premier runningbacks in America . . . Mike is a strong candidate for All-America honors as he enters his senior season . . . The 1975 Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year . . . Ran for 1,250 yards last fall in 10 games and scored 11 touchdowns . . . Ranked sixth nationally in rushing . . . Ran for 1,033 yards as a sophomore while alternating with James Betterson at tailback . . . Has a chance to become only the ninth player in collegiate history to get 1,000 yards three times . . . Has had 10 games in his career in which he has run for 100 yards . . . Had a career high 228 yards against Clemson last season . . . Ran for 209 against East Carolina and 169 against Notre Dame . . . Mike is an electrifying runner who thrives on competition . . . Has a tremendous competitive nature and a drive to excel . . . Always operates at a high level of performance . . . A tough inside runner with breakaway speed outside . . . Has rushed for 2,564 yards in his career and should easily smash the Carolina and ACC career record of 3,172 held by Don McCauley . . . His 144 career points places him fourth in Carolina history . . . If he equals his output of last year, Mike would break into college football's top ten on the all-time career rushing list . . . He should pass Ollie Matson, O. J. Simpson, Mike Garrett, Mercury Morris, Alan Ameche and Anthony Davis this fall . . . Rated a top draft choice by professional scouts . . . Mike is a former ACC champion in the 60-yard indoor high hurdles . . . Skipped track last year to concentrate on football and had a great spring practice . . . Should be better than ever this fall . . . Comes from a football family . . . A prep All-America at Indian River High. Back-packed 200 miles from his home to Chapel Hill during the summer.



ERNIE WILSON 35
5-11, 185, Sophomore
Woodbridge, Va.

Saw action at both wingback and defensive back for the junior varsity last season . . . Battling for a backup spot at wingback this fall . . . Has great speed and a lot of natural ability . . . Was an outstanding tailback at Garfield High . . . Caught four passes for 48 yards with the jayvees last fall and returned five kickoffs for a 20.2 average . . . Ran track with the D. C. Striders Track Club while in high school.



BILL MABRY 36
5-11, 190, Junior
Mt. Airy, N. C.

Saw action in a reserve role at wingback last fall . . . Also played on the specialty teams . . . Caught three passes during the season . . . Had a big 21-yard catch that kept Carolina's winning touchdown drive going against Virginia . . . He's experienced and has good hands . . . Missed all of the spring work, however, and will be behind early this fall . . . Should get more playing time this year than last season . . . Was an end and defensive back at Hargrave Military Academy . . . Enjoys hunting and fishing.

Offensive Tackles

CRAIG FUNK 64
6-2½, 230, Senior
Fairfax, Va.

Probably has as much experience as any lineman in the Atlantic Coast Conference . . . The most knowledgeable player in the Tar Heel offensive line . . . Craig is a fifth-year player . . . Can play either left or right guard . . . Should start on the right side this season . . . Started on occasion as a sophomore and then started every game last fall . . . Has good quickness and determination . . . Always gives a great effort . . . Only thing keeping him from being a super player is a lack of size . . . Has gained weight in the off-season . . . Had one of his finest games last fall against N. C. State . . . Another in a long line of Carolina players from Fairfax . . . An all-metro player at Woodson High . . . Should be one of the better players in the ACC this year.

JOHN RUSHING 60
6-2½, 236, Sophomore
Wingate, N. C.

One of the biggest surprises of spring practice . . . Looked extremely good in the off-season drills . . . Will see considerable action this fall . . . Ended the spring as a second-string guard . . . Was a starter on the junior varsity last year . . . A true sophomore . . . Still needs to improve his strength . . . Coaches think he has a bright Carolina future . . . Plays with determination . . . Once he gets more experience, he could be a star . . . The only married player on the Tar Heel squad . . . John was married last spring.

TOM BURKETT 72
6-5, 280, Senior
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Had an outstanding year last season . . . Has the ability to be one of the best offensive linemen in the Atlantic Coast Conference . . . Coaches felt he deserved All-ACC recognition last year . . . MIKE SALZANO 68
6-3½, 230, Sophomore
Durham, N. C.

Here is one of the best young players in college football . . . Had an outstanding year as a freshman . . . Started the last half of the season at left guard . . . Had a fine spring . . . Has the potential to be one of the greatest offensive guards in Carolina history . . . Already being favorably compared with consensus All-America Ken Huff . . . Plays Huff's position and wears his old number 68 . . . Has good strength . . . Needs to put on weight and should do that as he matures . . . Played very well in the last three games of the season last fall . . . Very intelligent young player . . . Has a good attitude and wants to learn . . . Mike had a great prep career at Northern Durham High . . . Was a state high school shot put champion . . . His dad is a doctor and is a member of the faculty at Duke University . . . Mike's beautiful sister Susan heads Carolina's Sweet Carolines . . . Salzano could challenge for all-conference honors as a sophomore.

BILLY DUNN 66
6-2½, 252, Junior
Hampton, Va.

Played sparingly last year . . . Should provide depth at tackle this season . . . Billy has also played guard in the past . . . Has good size and strength . . . Major handicap is a lack of experience . . . Coaches are hoping he will have a good year and give the backup help needed in the line . . . His brother, Mike, quarterbacks the Duke Blue Devils.

MARK GRIFFIN 79
6-5, 235, Senior
Cumberland, Md.

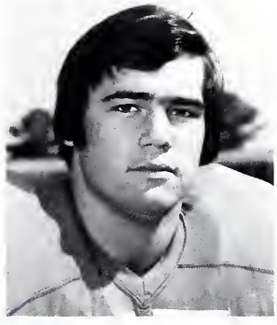
Should be one of the best players in the Atlantic Coast Conference . . . Teams with Tommy Burkett to give the Tar Heels a great pair of tackles . . . Had a fine year last season . . . A very consistent player . . . Gives a great second effort . . . Stays with a block extremely well . . . Started every game last fall at left tackle and on occasion as a sophomore . . . Good athlete with fine quickness . . . Has added weight in the off-season to help his strength . . . Coaches like his desire and determination . . . Very ambitious player . . . Played tight end as a freshman here . . . Made a quick adjustment to tackle . . . With the experience and confidence he gained last year, Mark should be headed for his best season . . . Played tight end and defensive tackle at Fort Hill High . . . His hobby is sailing . . . Teammates call him Zipper.

65 BILLY GUTHRIE
6-2½, 232, Junior
Appomattox, Va.

Has the ability to be a fine offensive lineman . . . Had a good spring . . . Coaches are counting on him to give Tar Heels depth at tackle this fall . . . Could also be used at guard . . . Lack of experience is his biggest problem.

CARL HACKLEY 74
6-3, 246, Sophomore
Bristol, Va.

One of the better young players on the Tar Heel squad . . . Started on the junior varsity last season . . . Showed a lot of progress during the spring . . . Extremely dedicated . . . Has a good attitude . . . Big and strong . . . Needs to improve his foot quickness . . . Could play in a backup role this fall.



77 BOBBY HUKILL

MARK CANTRELL 55
6-3, 243, Senior
Atlanta, Ga.

The best offensive lineman in the South . . . Top candidate for All-America honors . . . Has already received some mention on preseason All-America teams . . . Beginning his third year as a starter in the Carolina line . . . Has had an amazing record of consistency . . . Has never played a really bad game in his Tar Heel career . . . Played well as a sophomore and then topped that with an even better season last fall . . . Graded over 70 per cent in every game last year . . . Carolina led the ACC in rushing offense last season and Cantrell was one of the big reasons . . . Comes off the ball extremely well . . . Has good strength . . . Great effort and desire . . . Also has tremendous quickness for a man of his size . . . N. C. State Coach Lou Holtz said he changed his entire defense for the Carolina game last season in an effort to offset the blocking ability of Cantrell . . . Mark still had one of his best days of the year . . . State's All-ACC middle guard Tom Higgins called Mark the best center in the ACC . . . After Cantrell had dominated Tulane middle guard Mark Olivari throughout the first half of that game, the Green Wave switched defenses to try to free their top defender . . . Cantrell also had especially good days against Ohio State and Duke . . . Named ACC Lineman of the Week for his play against the Blue Devils . . . Mark credits his former roommate, All-America guard Ken Huff, with helping his development . . . A star high school linebacker in Atlanta . . . Professional scouts say Cantrell may be the best center in the country this year.

56 SCOTT DAVISON
6-2½, 233, Junior
Virginia Beach, Va.

Would start at most ACC schools at center . . . But plays behind one of the best players in America, Mark Cantrell, here . . . Has a lot of determination and always gives a good effort . . . Norwich, N. Y.

One of Carolina's top all-star candidates on defense . . . Was voted the Tar Heels' best defensive lineman last year . . . Excellent athlete who had an amazing year last fall . . . Roger was an offensive guard for the 1972 freshmen, was red-shirted in 1973 and then was out of school in 1974 . . . Came back in the fall of 1975 and won the starting nose guard position. Did a good job all season . . . Had a team high 16 tackles behind the line of scrimmage . . . His strength is his consistency of effort . . . Has the knack for finding the football and getting through the blockers to it . . . Has good quickness and football instinct . . . Carolina coaches felt he should have made the all-conference team last fall . . . Should be headed for a good senior season . . . Coaches are counting on him for leadership this year as well as good play . . . Roger spends a lot of his spare time working with his two golden retrievers.

Linebackers

86 CHUCK AUSTIN
6-2, 208, Senior
Naruna, Va.

An excellent all-around athlete . . . Very versatile . . . Started his Carolina career as a tailback and led the 1973 junior varsity in rushing . . . Played as a backup at defensive end as a sophomore and started there last year . . . When injuries hit the Tar Heel secondary last fall, Chuck played one game at safety . . . Switched to linebacker in the spring . . . Missed part of the off-season drills because of injuries . . . Did not get as much work at linebacker as the coaches would have liked . . . Has the most playing experience of any of the linebackers, although that experience was not at this position . . . Biggest assets are his quickness and maturity . . . Very talented . . . Has the ability to be a starter . . . Capable of making the big play . . . One of the biggest plays of his career was fourth-down stop in goal line stand against N. C. State in 1974.

RONNIE DOWDY 49
6-2½, 232, Junior
Durham, N. C.

Young player who worked his way into the starting lineup during the spring . . . Saw limited action in a reserve role last year . . . Showed good improvement during the off-season drills . . . Has great potential . . . Excellent physical talent . . . Lacks experience, but got plenty of playing time in the spring . . . He's quick and a hard hitter . . . If he plays up to his capabilities, it would be a big boost to the Tar Heel defense . . . Expected to be one of the defensive leaders . . . A versatile performer at Jordan High in Durham, playing tailback, tight end and defensive end . . . Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game.

63 MIKE DUFFY
Massapequa, N. Y.

Started on occasion last year, but played mainly in a reserve role . . . Missed all of the 1974 season after being a backup in 1973 . . . Biggest asset is his consistency . . . Had one of his best games last year against Notre Dame . . . Mike is ahead of the other linebacker candidates as far as play recognition is concerned . . . Will contend for a starting job this fall . . . He's tough and a good competitor . . . A fine high school fullback on Long Island.

MIKE FINN 85
6-3½, 236, Junior
Natick, Mass.

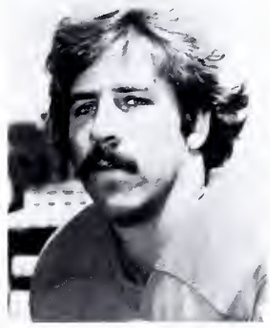
Ended the spring as a starter . . . Has only one game of varsity experience at linebacker . . . Played tight end as a freshman and most of last season . . . Was shifted to linebacker late last fall after injuries hit the Carolina defense . . . Played only in the Tulane game at linebacker . . . Learned a lot in the spring . . . Worked hard to become familiar with the position . . . Assets are his enthusiasm and his aggressiveness . . . Super competitor . . . Good strength . . . Has the ability to develop into an outstanding linebacker . . . Was a football, basketball and crew star at Tabor Academy.

54 BOBBY GAY
5-10½, 220, Junior
Hopewell, Va.

Carolina's top linebacker last season . . . Injured his knee in the Tulane game . . . Missed all of spring practice . . . His rehabilitation is a big key to the Carolina season . . . If he's completely healthy, Bobby could be one of the top linebackers in the Atlantic Coast Conference . . . Did a good job last year before being injured . . . Played especially well at Ohio State . . . Has good linebacker instincts . . . A tough competitor . . . Gave one of his best performances in the 1974 Sun Bowl as a freshman . . . Played tailback and linebacker at Hopewell High . . . An all-state player, Bobby played in the Virginia All-Star Game . . Enjoys all outdoor sports.

TONY MILLS 42
6-0, 210, Junior
Sanford, N. C.

One of the hardest workers on the Carolina squad . . . Has the ability to play linebacker, but lacks familiarity with the position . . . Played fullback as a freshman and most of last year . . . Shifted to linebacker late in the year because of injuries . . . Saw only limited action at this spot against Duke . . . Attacked the position in the spring and made good progress . . . One of the team's strongest players . . . Played on a 4-A state championship team at Sanford Central High . . . Another player on that team was P. J. Gay.



57 KEVIN NORTON
6-0, 196, Sophomore
Raleigh, N. C.

Came out on his own and played linebacker for the junior varsity last season . . . Likes to work . . . Has a lot to learn, however . . . Probably a year away from making a contribution to the team . . . Coaches like his desire and attitude . . . His brother, Pat, started at split end on the 1974 Tar Heel Sun Bowl team.

Defensive Backs

GARRY RUDOLPH 45
6-2½, 201, Sophomore
Havre de Grace, Md.

One of the biggest surprises of the spring drills . . . Had two or three sensational practices . . . Played on the junior varsity last season . . . Has good ability and wants to play . . . He'll be a big help once he gains more confidence and consistency . . . Coaches think he has good promise . . . One of the best students on the team . . . Had a perfect 4.0 grade average last semester.

84 DAVE SIMMONS
6-4½, 202, Sophomore
Goldsboro, N. C.

Player with tremendous potential . . . Has good size and speed . . . Very raw right now . . . Once he gains experience, Dave is going to be an outstanding player . . . Capable of making the big play . . . Played end on the junior varsity last season, catching five passes for 90 yards and an 18.0 yards-per-catch average . . . A versatile and highly recruited player at Rosewood High . . . Interested in broadcasting as a possible career.

SCOTT BATCHELOR 27
6-0, 179, Junior
Winston-Salem, N. C.

A walk-on who won a scholarship through his hustle and desire . . . Had a good spring . . . Made tremendous improvement . . . Strength is his super attitude . . . A conscientious player . . . Doesn't have the great physical ability of some other players, but makes up for that with his determination . . . Understands the Carolina system well . . . Will be used in a backup role this fall . . . Played at Mt. Tabor and Reynolds High in Winston-Salem . . . A Dean's List student in business administration.

38 ALAN CALDWELL
5-11, 170, Junior
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Ended the spring as a starter in the secondary . . . Looked good in the off-season drills . . . Was shifted from free safety to strong safety and seems ideally suited for the new position . . . Very talented . . . Great quickness . . . Saw only limited action in the secondary last season, but played a great deal on the specialty teams . . . Returned 19 kickoffs, averaging 20.0 yards per return . . . Alan doesn't have great size, but he's a hard hitter . . . Should be headed for a fine season . . . Coaches call him Keystone because he moves as fast as the Keystone Cops.

JEFF CALDWELL 37
6-2¼, 182, Junior
Clyde, N. C.

Has seen action in a reserve role during the last two seasons . . . Started against William and Mary last year and intercepted two passes . . . Handicapped by a leg injury in the spring . . . Had to undergo an operation . . . If he's healthy, Jeff could battle for the starting spot at strong safety . . . Tough tackler . . . Intense competitor . . . Has made great strides since he's been at Carolina . . . Played quarterback and safety at Pelham and Tuscola Highs . . . His father coaches at Tuscola in Waynesville.

31 BOBBY CALE
6-1, 167, Sophomore
Middletown, Del.

Started on occasion for the varsity last fall at cornerback . . . Also played with the junior varsity . . . Intercepted two passes for the jayvees, against N. C. State and touring team from Mexico . . . Has good speed and quickness . . . Just needs more experience to be a top-flight player . . . Ended the spring as one of the chief backups at cornerback . . . Bobby turned down a professional baseball contract to play football at Carolina.

RUSS CONLEY 17
6-0½, 172, Senior
Canton, N. C.

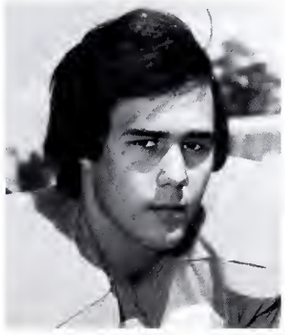
Starting his fourth year in the Tar Heel secondary . . . Russ started much of his freshman year and all of the last two seasons . . . Coaches feel he should be a top contender for All-Atlantic Coast Conference . . . Has great quickness and good speed . . . One of the mainstays of the Tar Heel defense . . . Has played well in the past and should be headed for his best year . . . Recognizes and reads plays well . . . Has a lot of natural ability . . . Coaches are counting on him for leadership, too . . . Was named ACC Defensive Back of the Week for his play against William and Mary last season . . . His pass interception in the closing seconds of the first half set up Carolina's go-ahead touchdown at Virginia . . . Also had a key interception and fumble recovery against N. C. State, stopping Wolfpack drives . . . Now has six career interceptions at Carolina . . . Although he has seen action at safety in the past, Russ will start at cornerback this fall . . . Played quarterback, halfback and safety at Pisgah High . . . Was voted Western North Carolina Back of the Year as a senior . . . Played in the Shrine Bowl . . . Russ and Rod Broadway dive off rock quarries for fun.

26 JOHN DAW
5-7½, 158, Senior
Smithfield, N. C.

Started much of last season at cornerback . . . Good competitor who wants to play . . . Did a good job in the spring . . . Should contribute again this fall . . . Ended the spring as one of the chief cornerback reserves . . . Had a shoulder operation after the spring drills, but will be ready to go this fall . . . Has overcome a height and weight deficiency . . . Understands the game well and has a good knowledge of Carolina's defensive scheme . . . Walk-on who won a scholarship . . . Lettered in football, basketball and wrestling at Smithfield-Selma High . . . Good tennis player . . . Nickname is Mighty Mouse.

STEVE FRYE 21
5-9¼, 172, Sophomore
Statesville, N. C.

Came out on his own for the junior varsity team last fall and started at safety . . . Intercepted a pass in the Duke game . . . Has a lot of desire and determination . . . Short on experience, but wants to learn . . . His dad is a high school coach in Statesville who once coached Carolina assistant Jim Donnan.



36 JEFF HEAD
5-10¼, 174, Sophomore
Kinston, N. C.

Came out for football two years ago without a scholarship . . . Played on the junior varsity team and was red-shirted last year . . . Will be used as a backup this fall . . . Played all the secondary positions during the spring . . . Best spot appears to be free safety . . . Played football and baseball at Kinston High . . . Hobbies are hunting and carpentry.

RONNY JOHNSON 20
5-10, 194, Senior
High Point, N. C.

One of Carolina's top all-star candidates . . . Probably the best defensive back in the Atlantic Coast Conference . . . Started at cornerback as a sophomore and at strong safety last year . . . Switched to free safety in the spring and was sensational . . . Won the Chuck Erickson Hustler Award for the second straight year as the outstanding performer in the off-season drills . . . Has made the transition to free safety very well . . . A tremendous open-field tackler . . . He packs a wallop when he hits someone . . . Made one of the biggest plays of the year last season at Virginia . . . His crushing tackle on Skip Browning at the goal line caused a fumble in the fourth period which he recovered . . . Carolina then went 99 yards for the winning touchdown . . . Also had one pass interception during the year . . . Injured early last season, but came on to have a fine year . . . A team player . . . Reliable and consistent . . . One of the squad's most popular players . . . Being counted on as one of the leaders of the Tar Heel defense . . . A dedicated athlete who has worked hard to become an outstanding player . . . Could be a big-play man in the Carolina defense . . . His brother, Sammy, was a star tailback at UNC and now plays with the San Francisco 49ers . . . Ronny's teammates call him The Juice.

17 CON McDONALD
5-8, 138, Junior
Goldsboro, N. C.

Walk-on who went through spring practice . . . Has a good attitude, but lacks experience and size . . . Lifted weights in the off-season to increase his strength and weight.

VAN MARTIN 19
5-10, 180, Sophomore
East Lansing, Mich.

Came out on his own and played for the junior varsity last season . . . Worked at all the secondary positions in the spring . . . Aggressive and has the ability to hit people . . . Needs to improve his quickness . . . Could help in the future.

23 KEN MACK
6-0, 195, Sophomore
Goldsboro, N.C.

Battling for a spot at strong safety . . . Had an outstanding spring for a freshman . . . Handicapped most of the spring by a broken wrist . . . Wore a cast through the practice sessions . . . Good ability . . . Moves well . . . Has fine size . . . Played in the secondary for the junior varsity last season . . . Also returned kickoffs for the jayvees . . . Averaged 25.1 yards on eight returns . . . Will be in competition for a starting position this fall . . . His father is in the service . . . Because of that, Ken has travelled a great deal . . . Played little league football in Japan.

MAX McGEE 30
5-10½, 177, Sophomore
Tampa, Fla.

Could be one of the better secondary players . . . Showed signs of aggressiveness in the spring . . . Intense competitor . . . Very talented . . . Good speed . . . Just needs to be more consistent . . . Open-field tackling is good . . . Being used at free safety . . . Could be a factor this fall . . . Started for the Jayvees last season . . . Also used as a punt returner on the junior varsity.

48 FRANCIS WINTERS
6-0, 191, Sophomore
LaPlata, Md.

Talented young player who ended the spring as a starter at cornerback . . . Francis showed good promise as a freshman two years ago, but missed all of last season . . . Was rusty in the spring because of the layoff, but made good progress . . . Has good size for a cornerback . . . Also good speed . . . Very conscientious . . . Just lacks experience . . . If he develops confidence, he should be a tremendous addition to the secondary . . . Was an all-state player at LaPlata High . . . Enjoys all sports and music.

Kicking Specialists

TOM BIDDLE 91
6-0, 190, Junior
Yorktown, Va.

Handled all of Carolina's extra points and field goals last year . . . Also did most of the kicking off . . . Made 23 of 24 PATs and six of 12 field goals . . . His 40-yard field goal as the clock ran out beat Tulane, 17-15, in a Superdome thriller last November . . . Longest successful attempt came from 41 yards against William and Mary . . . Needs to improve on his long field goals . . . Has been adequate from close range . . . Worked in the Durham Recreation Department during the summer.

16 DON CAUDLE
5-11, 175, Sophomore
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Came out on his own in the spring . . . Did a good job on extra points in practice sessions . . . Needs to improve his range . . . Could be a backup this fall.

the Tar Heel

Pat Watson

Offensive Coordinator and Line Coach

Watson has an all-star reputation. He was an all-star himself in his playing days at Mississippi State and he's been turning them out in the line at Carolina. In his four years on the Tar Heel staff Pat has produced two consensus All-Americas, guards Ron Rusnak and Ken Huff.

Watson is actually in his second coaching stint at Carolina. He served as a graduate assistant here in 1967 and 1968. He then coached at Furman one year before serving as defensive line coach at his alma mater for two seasons under Charles Shira. He returned to Chapel Hill in 1972.

As a player, Pat was an offensive guard and linebacker at Mississippi State in the early 1960's. He was All-Southeastern Conference in 1963 and 1964 and All-America in 1963. He also made the All-SEC academic teams in those years.

His 1963 team won the Liberty Bowl game. Bill Dooley was Watson's coach at that time.

Pat is married to the former Freddie Mauldin. Both are natives of Meridian, Miss. The Watsons have a two-year-old girl, Jane Elizabeth.

Jim Dickey

Defensive Coordinator and Secondary Coach

Dickey is beginning his second year on the Tar Heel staff. He came to Carolina from the University of Kansas where he had been assistant head coach and defensive coordinator for two years. Prior to that, he was an assistant coach at the University of Oklahoma for three years, at Oklahoma State for four years and at the University of Houston for three years. In all his college coaching assignments, he has been a defensive specialist.

A native of Houston, Dickey played quarterback at Tyler, Tex. Junior College and then at Houston in 1954 and 1955. He was All-Missouri Valley in 1955.

He began his coaching career at Ball High School in Galveston, Tex. in 1957 and remained there for three seasons. He was head coach at King High in Houston in 1961 and 1962 before returning to his alma mater in 1963.

In 1967 his defensive secondary at Oklahoma State ranked fourth in the nation in pass defense. In 1973 under Dickey's coaching, Kansas led the nation in pass interceptions and forced turnovers.

Jim is married to the former Inez Philpot of Houston and they have three children—Deborah; Jim, Jr.; and Darrell.

Sandy Kinney

Offensive Backfield Coach

Sandy Kinney, who has participated in some of the greatest seasons in Carolina football history, is one of the Tar Heels' offensive backfield coaches.

Kinney was a member of the 1963 UNC team which posted an 8-2 regular season record and then smashed the Air Force, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Now as a coach he's helped guide Carolina to two Atlantic Coast Conference championships and four bowl games in the last six years.

After graduating from Carolina, Kinney coached here one year under Jim Hickey and then was in the Air Force in 1966. He returned to Chapel Hill in 1967 as a graduate assistant to Bill Dooley and was made a full-time staff member in 1968.

Sandy's first assignment was working with Carolina's freshman teams. In that role he helped develop the young players who took Carolina to the top of the ACC.

Kinney was elevated to the varsity staff in 1972 to work with the offensive backs. His main role is helping the Tar Heel fullbacks and wingbacks.

Sandy is a native of Hendersonville, N. C. and is married to the former Sondra Peabody of Raleigh. They have two sons—George Sandifer III, three, and Robert Bruce, one.

Al Groh

Defensive End Coach

Al Groh enters his fourth year at Carolina as coach of the Tar Heel defensive ends.

A native of New York City, Al was a football and baseball star at Chaminade High School in Mineola, N. Y. He was an all-metropolitan football player and president of his senior class.

Groh attended the University of Virginia. He was a defensive end in football there and a defenseman in lacrosse.

He began his coaching career in 1967 at Albemarle High School in Virginia. He was an assistant coach at Army in 1968 and 1969 before returning to his alma mater as freshman coach in 1970. He joined the Cavalier varsity staff the following season as defensive line coach.

In his time at Carolina, Groh has coached linebackers as well as defensive ends. He follows all sports avidly and is one of the trivia experts on the Tar Heel staff.

Groh is married to the former Anne Stahle of Cornwall on the Hudson, N. Y. They have a son, Michael, four, and a daughter, Ashley Anne, two.

Offensive End Coach

Tom Fletcher

Tom Fletcher, beginning his fifth year on the Tar Heel staff, will coach the Carolina offensive ends this season.

In his time in Chapel Hill, Fletcher has served in many roles. He was the chief Tar Heel recruiter for two years and spent two other seasons working with the B Team.

Coaching offensive ends is nothing new to Fletcher, however. He has done it in the past with great success.

Tom came to Carolina from the University of Virginia where he was coach of the Cavaliers' offensive line. He also tutored the Virginia receivers and gained great recognition when two of them, Bill Davis and Dave Sullivan, led the Atlantic Coast Conference in pass catches.

Prior to coaching the offensive line, Fletcher worked with the Cavalier freshman team. He had formerly been a coach at Castlewood High in Virginia. He had an unbeaten season there and was named coach of the year.

A native of St. Paul, Va., he is a 1960 graduate of Hampden-Sydney where he lettered in three sports. He obtained his masters degree from the University of Virginia in 1968.

Defensive Line Coach

Tom Harper

The new defensive line coach at Carolina is Tom Harper, the former Wake Forest head coach.

Harper, a defensive coach at Iowa State for the past two seasons, joined the Tar Heel staff last spring.

A native of Madisonville, Ky., Harper played offensive and defensive tackle for Bear Bryant at the University of Kentucky from 1950 to 1953. He later served as a graduate assistant coach at Kentucky under Blanton Collier.

After a successful coaching career at Manuel High in Louisville, Harper became an assistant at Eastern Kentucky in 1965. He then coached at Oklahoma State for three seasons before going to Wake Forest in 1969.

Harper served as defensive coordinator for the Deacons and helped guide them to the Atlantic Coast Conference championship in 1970. He became head coach in 1972. After a short stint with Jacksonville of the World Football League in 1973, he joined the Iowa State staff in 1974.

Harper is married to the former Coral Evans of Logan, W. Va. They have five children.

Offensive Backfield Coach

Jim Donnan

Donnan is in his third year on the UNC staff. In his previous two years he served as freshman coach and chief recruiter. His main areas of concentration this season will be the Tar Heel quarterbacks and tailbacks.

A native of Burlington, N. C., Donnan was a quarterback himself on Wolfpack teams in 1965, 1966 and 1967. In his senior year he guided State to its best record ever and a victory over Georgia in the Liberty Bowl. He was the Most Valuable Player in that game and finished second in the balloting for ACC Athlete of the Year.

After graduation, Jim joined the Wolfpack staff as a coach and remained there until 1972. He then came to Carolina for a short time before going on to Florida State. He was an assistant coach for the Seminoles for two seasons.

Jim is still an active athlete. He plays tennis regularly and ranks as one of the best players in the state. He also is a sports trivia expert.

Donnan is married to the former Mary Wright. They have three children—Paige, Tammy and Todd.

Linebacker Coach

Gary Darnell

The newest member of the Carolina coaching staff is Gary Darnell, who works with the Tar Heel linebackers.

Darnell was a star linebacker himself in his playing days at Oklahoma State University. His three-year record as a linebacker was one of the best in Cowboy history. He made 222 assisted tackles, 84 unassisted, recovered four fumbles, broke up 10 passes and intercepted two.

A native of Waldron, Ark., Darnell began his coaching career as a student assistant at OSU in 1970. He was varsity linebacker coach in 1971 and head freshman coach in 1972. He was junior varsity coach at Southern Methodist University in 1973 and 1974 and defensive end coach there last season.

In his spare time Darnell enjoys playing golf. His other hobbies include music and flying.

Gary is married to the former Sandra McAlister of Moore, Okla. They have a daughter, Kristen, nine.

John Guy

Freshman Coach

John Guy begins his third year on the Tar Heel staff with a new title—head freshman coach.

Last season Guy was the assistant freshman coach. He was elevated to his new position when Jim Donnan was switched from freshman coach to the varsity offensive backfield coaching post. In his first year at Carolina, Guy was a graduate assistant.

A native of Greensboro, N. C., Guy was a three-sport star at James B. Dudley High School there. He played football, basketball and baseball.

John was a free safety for Coach Hornsby Howell at North Carolina A&T from 1969 through 1972. He lettered all four years and made the MEAC all-star team as a senior.

Eddie Williamson

Academic Counselor

Eddie Williamson, a graduate assistant football coach at Furman University for the past two years, is the new academic counselor for the Carolina Tar Heels.

Williamson replaced Bill Cannell last spring. Cannell had served in that role for five years.

As academic counselor, Williamson keeps tabs on the classroom progress of the Tar Heel players and counsels them in all areas of their academic work.

Williamson, a native of Pendleton, S. C., is a graduate of Davidson College where he lettered three years in football and was team captain as a senior. He obtained his masters degree in education from Furman. He had a perfect 4.0 average in his graduate work there.

While at Furman, Williamson worked with the offensive line and defensive ends as a graduate assistant.

Paul Hoolahan

Athletic Fitness Director

Paul Hoolahan, a former star football player at Carolina, is serving in the newly created position of athletic fitness director at the University.

Hoolahan was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference tackle for the Tar Heels in 1970. He led an offensive line that took Carolina to the Peach Bowl and helped Don McCauley set an NCAA single-season rushing record.

An outstanding student, Paul received a B.A. in English at Carolina and his M.A. in psychology from Columbia University.

He had been working as the supervisor of the Aquatics Division of Nassau County Recreation and Parks on Long Island. Simultaneously, he had served as a football coach and director of physical development at St. Francis Preparatory School.

In his position at Carolina, Hoolahan's chief responsibility is to supervise strength development programs for Tar Heel varsity intercollegiate teams.

Hoolahan is a bachelor.

Assistant Coach

John Lacey/Head Trainer

Lacey, beginning his 21st year in Chapel Hill, will once again be the head trainer for Carolina's football and basketball teams. He will work directly with Dr. Joseph DeWalt and Dr. Robert Lindsay, who head Carolina's outstanding Division of Sports Medicine.

Throughout his illustrious career, Lacey has been associated with championship teams and great athletes. He has worked with eight football bowl teams, five of them at Carolina.

One of his greatest honors came in 1972 when he was selected head trainer of the United States delegation to the Olympic Games in Munich. It was Lacey's second Olympic experience. He had served as trainer of the U. S. basketball team in the 1964 Games at Tokyo.

Lacey came to Carolina in 1956 from Maryland when the late Sunny Jim Tatum was named the Tar Heel football coach. While at Maryland, Lacey served three bowl teams and worked with squads which won national championships in lacrosse and football.

At Carolina, Lacey went to the 1963 Gator Bowl with the Tar Heels and has recently worked with the four bowl teams of Bill Dooley.

He was also trainer of the 1957 Carolina basketball team which swept the national championship and the 1971 team which won the National Invitation Tournament.

His background also includes a stint as trainer with three professional football teams—the Chicago Rockets, New York Yankees and Baltimore Colts.

Lacey is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford.

The University

"The Southern Part of Heaven."

The late artist William Meade Prince described Chapel Hill and the University of North Carolina that way several years ago.

Like many things in this small, yet cosmopolitan village, the magic, romance and beauty that fascinated Prince remain unchanged today.

Time Magazine has called Chapel Hill "one of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States."

The school itself is the oldest state university in the nation, first admitting students in 1795 while George Washington was President. However, it was not until after Reconstruction that Carolina began making the rapid progress that has lifted it to the top of southern education.

There are currently 14 schools at Carolina and more than 70 departments and other academic-affiliated divisions and institutes.

Strong in both the humanities and the sciences, the University also has a School of Business Administration of special potency, commensurate with the growing industrial might of the mid-South.

Carolina is one of six universities in the nation with a full range of health professional schools, including medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, nursing and public health. The center of this Division of Health Affairs is North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

Among the dozens of institutes and specialized programs affiliated with that division are the Health Services Research Center, the Hand Rehabilitation Center, the Child Development and Mental Retardation Research Institute and the Dental Research Center, each of which is one of only a few centers of its kind in the country.

Carolina is one of the largest and top-ranking universities in the nation. A recent rating of graduate schools by the American Council on Education put 12 UNC graduate departments in the highest category and 12 in the second highest. This made Carolina the leader of all universities, public or private, in the Southeast.

In annual choices made by southern graduate scholars in the Rockefeller grants, more select graduate study at Chapel Hill than any other place.

The University is continuing to grow as it strives to keep pace with the changing world of today. Growth has been especially tremendous in the last 20 years. Those two decades have seen the establishment of the School of Journalism, the School of Business Administration, the Carolina Population Center, the WUNC-TV educational television station, the Ackland Art Center and a new computer system.

In that same time buildings have multiplied; student enrollment has reached nearly 20,000; the faculty has grown to over 1,200; new courses have been added to the curriculum and old ones revised; adult education courses have expanded; and scholarship and development programs have grown.

Here are some other facts of interest about one of America's great universities.

—Carolina's Morehead Planetarium was the first planetarium on a university campus in the world. It features special programs and exhibits and is a training base for U. S. astronauts. The unique Planetarium Sundial allows one to determine the correct time anywhere in the world.

—James K. Polk, an 1818 graduate, became the 11th President of the United States.

—The Institute of Government on campus is a training center for city, county and state officials and employees. It is also involved in research and consultations for state and local governments.

—The University's television network feeds programs into North Carolina public schools.

—In a traditional program of student self-government, undergraduates have their own legislature, system of honor courts and student publications. These include a daily newspaper, "The Daily Tar Heel."

—Another feature is the Institute for Research in Social Science, an organization performing fact-finding duties in sociology, economics, humanities, statistics, journalism and other fields, including race relations, urban studies and regional development.

But perhaps the most outstanding feature of the University is the gentle way the new has been blended with the old to form one of the most beautiful campuses in the world.

Ivy-covered buildings and tree-lined walkways surround spacious, grassy greens where students lounge between classes. Tall pines cover south campus where modern buildings are under construction.

In direct contrast are Gerard Hall, built in 1837, and Old East, the oldest state university building in the nation. The cornerstone to Old East was laid in 1793 and the dorm was dedicated as a national shrine in 1966.

Other famous and beautiful spots around campus are the Old Well, the Davie Poplar, the Carolina Inn, the botanical gardens and Gimghoul Castle.

Despite the change and growth, the basic beauty of this area remains the same. It still truly is "the Southern Part of Heaven."

A Town Touched by Strange Magic

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not, really, a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such . . . None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquillity and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond . . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge but, strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . . Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis . . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A university department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his own intellectual level and prefers his company . . . But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

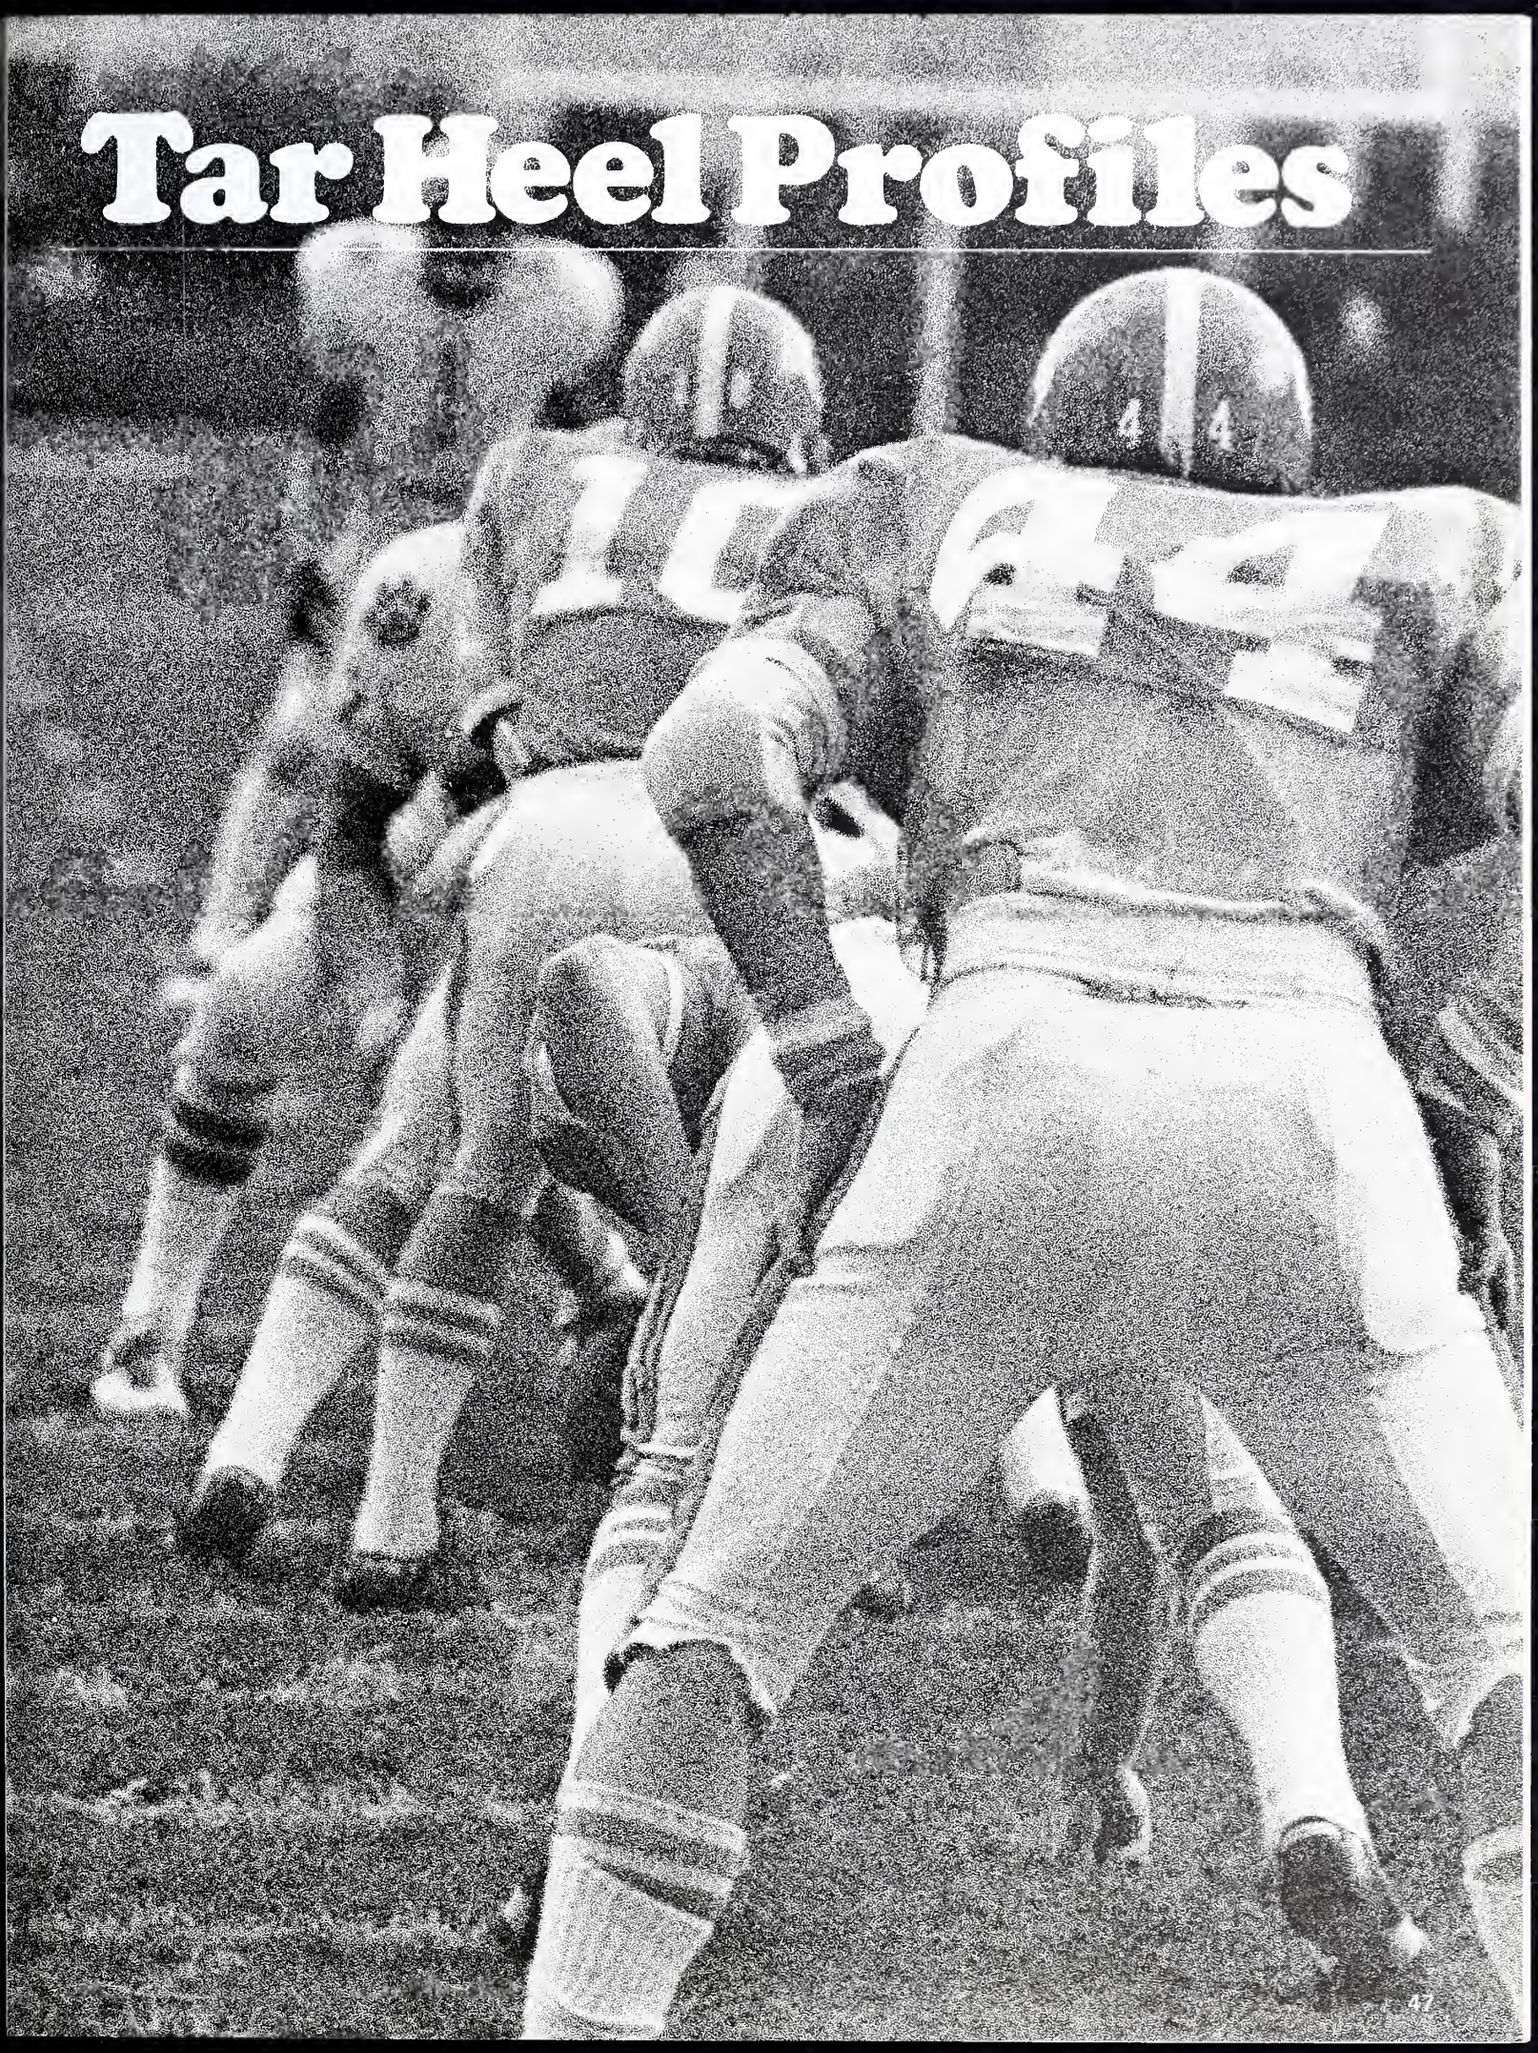
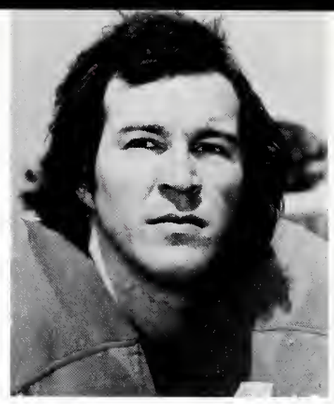
The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

Tar Heel Profiles





Q. You did not run track last spring. Is that going to help you this fall on the football field?

A. I guess I won't know that until the season gets started. Skipping track did give me more time to think about football. I had fallen pretty far behind in track. Because of that, I thought I could help the football team more than the track team. Plus, the track team had two pretty good hurdlers in Chip Wilson and Chris Cox. With my other obligations to my studies and football, I just didn't think I could make a significant contribution to the track team. Also, since we had a losing season last year, I'm sure Coach Dooley didn't want his runningback taking off and missing spring practice. We made a lot of mistakes last year and I wanted to work on correcting mine. I also have to worry about carrying more of the running load instead of splitting time with Boom (James Betterson). So I felt I had to start getting ready early.

Q. Can you get 1,000 yards rushing for the third straight year?

A. You'll have to talk to my linemen about that. If the holes are there, I'm going to hit them. It just depends on how hard our offensive line works and how hard the opposing defenses are hitting. If I get 1,000 yards it will be because of the other people on the field.

Q. Have you tried to pattern your running style after any particular player?

A. No, everybody has a different pattern to running. You just have to find what's natural for you. For example, Ken Willard, Don McCauley and I all are basically the same type runners. They ran from the I-formation just like I do. The plays are almost the same. But we're entirely different runners. They had their style and I have mine. In fact, I'm still developing it.

Q. A lot of people compare you very favorably with McCauley. How do you feel about that?

A. Well, that's a very nice compliment. Don was a great runner. He had a good backup, a great fullback, a solid offensive line and an excellent quarterback to complement him. But, he also had tremendous desire and second effort.

Q. What appeals to you about football?

A. Football opens up opportunities that I wouldn't have had otherwise—a chance to travel and meet a lot of interesting people. It also gives you a chance to work your way through school. Football is the only way some athletes have of getting an education. And when I say work your way through school, that's what I mean. I put in around seven hours a day at football. That's almost a job. It's hard work, but I don't look at it as a real burden. The good things about football more than offset the work.

Q. If for some reason you had to play a position other than tailback, which would you choose and why?

A. I'd find out at which position I would have the best chance to be used. I just want to play. If I couldn't play tailback, the position wouldn't matter. But, considering my size, I guess defensive back would be the best spot for me. But that's a hypothetical answer to a hypothetical question. I just want to play.

Q. How do you prepare yourself mentally for a game?

A. I go to sleep. I just try to take my mind off what's going on around me. Football weekends are like a fair. People are coming from all over the state to see the game. Everyone is talking about the game and everything evolves around it. But, you can't let all that get to you. You've got to take your mind off it in order to play well.

Q. How do you view your own competitive attitude?

A. I consider myself a good competitor. I like to participate. But I don't like to go out and just challenge anybody. A lot of people come out and say "Here I am. Beat me." I don't believe in that. You've just got to go out and do your best. Whether you win or lose, you've got to do the best you can for 60 minutes. I think that's a good competitive spirit.

Q. In your opinion, who were the standouts in spring practice?

A. Ronny Johnson and Dee Hardison. At least, they were the ones who were in my face all spring. So they had to impress me. Actually, I thought the whole defense did a good job.

Q. How important is the fullback to the tailback in Carolina's style of play?

A. Very important. He's the lead blocker on most plays. The fullback has got to open the curtain so the tailback can put on a show. If you get caught in the curtain, you look like a clown. Everybody is watching the ball, so you have to play well. The fullback helps you do that. In fact, one of my main problems in spring practice was that most of our fullbacks were injured. I didn't really get a chance to get their moves down. I need to know their moves, so I can adjust my techniques accordingly.

Mike Voight

Q. What goals do you have for this season?

A. Tony Dorsett and I were on the same All-America team when I was a senior in high school. He and Ricky Bell are probably the top contenders for All-America at runningback this year. That's what I would really like to do—make at least one All-America team. I also want to play on an ACC championship team. Before I came here, Carolina had won two championships in a row. We haven't won one since then but I would love to get one this season.

Q. Does the prospect of being a top professional draft choice weigh on your mind?

A. A lot of people have talked to me about that and it has been on my mind. But, right now I'm just worried about my senior year. This is my final year at Carolina and I want it to be a good one. The last time you do anything always means the most to you.

Q. Were you pleased with your performance last year?

A. No, not really. I wasn't pleased with a lot of my broken field running. There were times when the line would spring me and I didn't break the big one. That was especially upsetting. When I don't do as well as I think I'm capable of doing, it bothers me.

Q. What has football done for you?

A. Well, I haven't been able to reap any profits from it yet except an education. But it has given me an opportunity to meet a lot of people, make a lot of friends and compete against the top people in my field. Of course, it has also given me a lot of sleepless nights and been a pain in the neck. But, it has been worth it.

Q. You were injured in the early part of the season last year. Were you ever really able to play as well as you would have liked?

A. No, I didn't come close to playing as well as I wanted. I messed up my shoulder the first day of practice. Just about the time that was getting better, I sprained my foot on Wednesday before the Maryland game. Those injuries probably hurt me more mentally than they did physically. I had trouble getting in the right frame of mind.

Q. Will the Carolina defense be better this fall?

A. From what I saw this spring, I think it will be better. We've got just about everybody back and that's certainly a big plus factor. Of course, it remains to be seen what is going to happen on the field.

Q. What is your attitude as a senior going into your final year of football?

A. I'm just hoping everything turns out okay for me and the team. I want us to win as many games as possible—12. That would be a great way to leave Carolina. I've enjoyed my time here. It's really been three very fast years.

Q. What stands out in your memory about your Carolina career?

A. Our 33-14 victory over N. C. State in 1974 and our loss to Notre Dame last season. State was undefeated and ranked in the top ten when we defeated them. We played three good quarters against Notre Dame and should have won.

Q. Do you ever try to help the younger players on the squad?

A. Sure. If I see someone doing something that I know is wrong, I'll help them. The coaches can't watch everyone at the same time. And I do know a little more than the younger players right now.

Q. What do you enjoy about playing defense?

A. The biggest thrill I get comes from really sticking somebody. It's also a great feeling to stop people. There's nothing like going in the game for three plays and then coming out after holding the opposing offense.

Q. Does emotion play a big role in being a football player?

A. Oh, it plays a very important part. That was one of my problems last year. I had those injuries and my mind was going around in circles. I couldn't get emotionally ready to play. If you have your mind on what is going on, you play much better. Some people say emotion is 90 per cent of the game. I don't know about that, but it is important. Of course, it's tough to have an emotional peak 11 weeks in a row.

Q. What are some of the things a defensive tackle must do?

A. You've got to stay low and deliver a blow. Then you read the tackles and react to the football. The main objective is to control the line of scrimmage. We spent a lot of time this spring working on controlling blockers.

Q. How do you keep in shape in the off-season?

A. I try to do a little bit of everything. Mainly, I lift weights and run. I also play basketball and tennis.

Q. What lessons have you learned from football?

A. There are a lot of them. You learn how to deal with people because you meet so many from so many different backgrounds. You learn how to react in certain situations and how to be cool under pressure. Football has really helped me in my outside life.

Q. What is the most important requisite for a defensive tackle?

A. Quick feet and good balance. It's so easy for a defensive tackle to be knocked off his feet because there are so many different ways you can be blocked. So you've got to have balance. It's also important to be able to stay low.

Q. In your opinion, who were the standouts this spring?

A. It's hard to single out just one person because the whole defense played well. The offense looked good too, but I didn't see as much of them. I thought Ronny Johnson, Roger Shonosky, Alan Caldwell, Dee Hardison, Russ Conley, Bill Perdue and Francis Winters played exceptionally well. Some of our younger guys also came on, like T. K. McDaniels, Steve Junkmann and Ronnie Dowdy.

Q. You were injured in spring practice this year. How did it happen?

A. I was blocking Rod Broadway in a one-on-one drill. I took Broadway out of the hole okay. But, as the back came through, he tripped and his legs cut my feet out from under me. I fell and crushed some muscles in my right knee. Fortunately, the injury wasn't that serious and I'm fine now. However, I did miss some valuable practice time.

Q. What progress do you feel you personally made last season?

A. Most of my progress came in the area of consistency. I've always known what I was supposed to do, but doing it was another thing. I'd do the right thing on one play and have a busted assignment on the next. However, toward the end of last season I started playing with more consistency. That was even more true this spring until I was injured.

Q. Being a man of big size, do you ever have a weight problem?

A. I've always had a weight problem. I have to lose weight in the off-season every year. In fact, I think I'm the only guy on our team who has to come to fall practice at a specific weight. Most of the players are given a minimum weight. I think I'm the only one with a maximum. It's changed, of course, since I've been here. As a sophomore, I could weigh 250, 255 as a junior and 260 this year. I can weigh less, but not more. I've usually gotten my weight down by just dieting. I would go two or three days without eating. The problem was that I would lose strength as well as weight. This summer Paul Hoolahan has put me on a high-protein diet. I'm now eating three meals a day of specific foods. My weight is changing into muscle tissue, so I'm not losing any strength. I'm also running more than I ever have in the past.

Q. Who is the toughest man you ever tried to block?

A. Well, I've faced three All-Americas since I've been here—Randy White of Maryland, Jimmy Webb of Mississippi State and Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame. They were all good players. White had unusual strength plus great quickness. Webb was real quick and was more of a finesse player. Niehaus was a good, all-around player. I probably had my best day against him, however. Of the three, I'd say Webb was the toughest to handle.

Q. What is the most important requisite for an offensive tackle?

A. Tolerance. You've got to be able to take the pressure. You have to have great self-control in the offensive line.

Q. What kind of team do you think Carolina will have this fall?

A. I think we have the potential to win every game on our schedule. This year's seniors were supposed to have been Coach Dooley's best recruiting year. We want to prove that this season. However, because that potential for a great season is there, I also think we're going to have to work even harder this fall.

Q. What have you learned most from football?

A. Self-discipline. Football matures you. You have to control yourself at all times on the field, especially in the line. There are so many variables on every play that you have to be conscious at all times of what is going on. Self-discipline is the only way to have total concentration like that.

Q. Offensive linemen have been called the unsung heroes of a football team. What is your opinion on this?

A. I think it's true. Everybody watches the ball and not the blocking. I'm guilty of the same thing when I watch a game. But the only bad thing about being a lineman is you're sometimes stereotyped as a big, dumb football player. That's simply not correct. You have to be pretty smart to play in the line. You have so many assignments that you have to be able to pick up things in a snap.

Q. What was the toughest adjustment you had to make when you came to college?

A. I had to learn to block people my own size. I got away with a lot of things in high school simply because I was so much bigger than everyone else. Here it was a whole new ballgame.

Q. If for some reason you had to give up football, what would you miss the most?

A. Dressing out on Saturday. There's a feeling involved there that you just can't describe. I dressed for several games before I ever got a chance to start. My first start came in the N. C. State game in 1974. There was a totally different feeling. There's just something special about sitting around the locker room before a football game.

Q. What qualities does a good center have to possess?

A. First you have to be knowledgeable about defenses. You have to know how the man you are going to block will probably react in certain situations. You also have to be very quick off the ball. And like the other linemen, you need good physical strength.

Q. Were you pleased with your performance last year?

A. Overall, yes. But since we did not have a winning season, I wasn't completely satisfied. I know I've got to work more on the nose guard run-around. It's difficult to know which way he's going. You have to be able to read his movements and pick it up fast. A lot of blocking on a nose guard is more or less anticipation of what he's going to do. But, no matter how good you are, you're going to get beat sometimes. The idea is to keep the number of times down.

Q. Were you disappointed you did not make the All-ACC team last year?

A. To be quite honest, yes, I was disappointed. But, I think all good players think they are the best at their position. You've got to believe in yourself. Confidence is so important in football. I also thought there were some other guys on our team who were as good as the players who made the all-conference team, like Bill Perdue, Roger Shonosky, Rod Broadway, Craig Funk, Tommy Burkett and Mark Griffin.

Q. How did you get interested in football?

A. I've been interested in football since I was a small kid. My father played high school football and then at Georgia Tech. I guess that's where the interest started. I used to go to Tech games when I was growing up.

Q. You were a big high school star as a linebacker in Atlanta. How did you like the change to center?

A. I played center as a high school junior and senior, in addition to linebacker. Of course, I've always been a center here. I like the position. I enjoy playing in the line. Being a center gave me a chance to start as a sophomore and that was very important to me.

Q. What has football at Carolina meant to you?

A. It's meant a whole lot to me. It's really hard to put it into words. The obvious things are the contacts I've made and all of the travelling I've done. Football has been a lot of work, but it's been a lot of fun, too. It's helped me get more out of my college life.

Q. Football and your studies obviously take up a great deal of your time. Have you found time for relaxation and a social life at Carolina?

A. My social life here has been very good. There is always something to do. Sure, football takes up a lot of time, but you can always make time for relaxation. I play a little golf or rather, I play at it. I find that to be a good break from the everyday routine.

Q. What is the toughest thing about playing college football?

A. Coordinating your time. In football, you have to be here or there at a certain time. There are meetings, practices and, of course, the games. Plus, you have other responsibilities as well. So you really have to learn to budget your time.

Q. Have there been times when you were nervous before a game?

A. I did get nervous my first couple of starts as a sophomore, but I don't get nervous any more. Right before the game I try to concentrate on the person who is going to be playing in front of me. I go over in my mind the things he is likely to do in certain situations. I guess concentrating like that prevents me from getting nervous. Sometimes I still get a little nervous when I go on the field for the first snap. After that, it's more or less routine.

Q. Is football worth all the time you put into it?

A. Definitely. You not only learn sportsmanship and competitiveness, but also you learn to accept things as they are. You learn to do the very best you can and then to not worry about what might have been.

Q. How do you view yourself as a Carolina student-athlete?

A. Well, I'm not just a student. Playing football and going to school is a full-time job. I give of myself to both and try to do both well.

Q. Is one more important than the other?

A. I've only got one year left here. My grades are in good shape. So right now football is more important. I want to play well this year and go out a winner.

Q. Will Carolina have a winning season?

A. The seniors on this team don't want just a winning season, they want a great one. I think we'll have it.

Q. What is the most difficult thing about playing in the secondary?

A. For me, I guess the most difficult thing is trying to discipline myself on every play. Sometimes you get too concerned with what's going on in front of you. A lot of times you can see plays developing up field with which you should not get involved. But there's a natural tendency to try to come up and make the defensive play. That's when you can get beat on a deep pass. This is particularly true after you've gone five or six plays without having any contact. Your natural reaction is to try to make a big play. There's where you really have to discipline yourself to just do your individual job.

Q. How important is emotion in a football game?

A. I think emotion is as important in football as it is in anything else you do. You have to put everything you have into a football game. To play well, you have to have a feel for the game. I really believe that being mentally ready to play is just as important as being physically ready. Emotion is also contagious. When the crowd is excited, it can fire you up.

Q. Is football fun?

A. Part of it is fun, but not all of it by any means. I like playing in the games. That's fun. However, there is a lot of preparation for that. But, I think the basic fundamentals of the game are enjoyable.

Q. What are your plans for the future?

A. I haven't really decided. I wouldn't mind playing professional football. I don't have the size to be a defensive back in the pros, but I might be able to make it at another position, like wide receiver.

Q. In what ways do you feel you are improved over last season?

A. Well for one thing I'm more experienced. However, I think the most important thing is that my aggressiveness improved a lot in spring practice. After you reach a certain stage, the basic things like speed, quickness and agility are going to stay about the same. The only way you can improve in those areas is to learn to utilize those skills better.

Q. Do you try to help the younger players on the squad, especially those who play your position? Or is that a coach's job?

A. Sometimes if I see a younger player doing something wrong that I also did wrong at one time, I'll tell him about it. But I know when I was a younger player, I didn't like a lot of other guys telling me what to do. I think that's basically a coach's job. But if someone is having problems with something I've also been through, I'll point out some of the things that helped me.

Q. How do you feel about the upcoming Carolina season?

A. I think we're going to have the best team since I've been here. Change a couple of plays here and a couple of plays there and we could have had a pretty good season last year. Since we've got everybody back and they're more experienced, I'm really looking forward to this season. I think it's going to be a smoker.

Q. How much conditioning is necessary in the off-season?

A. I really can't put a definite value on off-season conditioning. It really depends on the time of year. I always try to be the best football player I can possibly be. But there's no way you can stay in game-playing condition all year. That's one of the main purposes of pre-season practice—to get you reaccustomed to the heat, the contact and the bumps and bruises you learn to play with during the season.

Q. What has been your highest thrill at Carolina?

A. Beating N. C. State my sophomore year. I didn't really understand the great rivalry between the two schools when we lost to State my freshman season. The full effects of that defeat didn't come until later. That was why it was so fantastic to beat them as we did over here.

Q. If for some reason you couldn't play football this fall, what would you miss most about the game?

A. Being a part of the team. I've developed some real good friendships here and that's what I would miss most. That's really the most fun in playing football—playing with people you live with and know so well.

Q. How do you prepare yourself mentally for a game?

A. I don't get hyped up very much. My parents always come down for the games and I usually walk over to the fieldhouse with them. The players kid around in the locker room so we won't get too carried away. I think being too emotional can be a real problem. In fact, I never get emotionally ready until we go out on the field for warm-ups. Fifteen minutes of building emotion up is all it takes.

Q. Are you superstitious?

A. Sure. I do everything on the morning of a game in a certain pattern. I put on my equipment in a certain way. It's the same way I've done it since I started playing football. If I changed, I really think something might go wrong on the field. I also have a special spot in the locker room where I lay down after I get dressed.

Q. What is the most important requisite for being an offensive guard?

A. The most important thing about playing the position is knowing where your backs are going. If you know that, you know how the linebackers are going to react and that makes your blocking assignments much easier. You see, the linebackers follow the ballcarrier. But, if you know exactly where the back is going, you can block the linebackers accordingly. I guess that involves quickness more than any other physical attribute. Of course, it helps to have size, but that isn't everything. A lot of it has to do with what you have inside of you—how much you want to make a play.

Q. What is the most frustrating thing about playing offense?

A. A lack of recognition. Offensive linemen don't get a lot of publicity unless they're really great. Backs have the ball and defensive players have their names announced over the P. A. system for making tackles. But a lineman could make a big hole for a touchdown and very few people would ever know it. So you try to make up for that with self-satisfaction. If you know you did a good job, that's really all that should matter.

Q. How has spring practice helped you?

A. I think spring is very important. You get to learn fundamentals—how to block, tackle and run. You're shown exactly how to play your position. I don't think you can be a good football player without it.

Q. What impressed you most last spring?

A. The defensive line. Last season it seemed like somebody would always do something wrong at the worst possible time. But during the spring, the line seemed to fit together like a puzzle. They were more physical. I know we had trouble moving the ball against them. They lined up and tried to knock the hell out of us. That's pretty obvious because they banged up four or five of our fullbacks. Dee Hardison had a great spring and I think that was a big reason for their success. He seemed more aggressive than in the past. I also thought Russ Conley and Ronny Johnson looked super. I think our entire defense proved a lot this spring.

Q. What do you remember most about your time at Carolina?

A. The greatest thing that ever happened to me was the day of the N. C. State game in 1974. At 12:15 every Saturday we have a meeting with Coach Dooley. That day we could not hear him talking and we were in the same room in the fieldhouse. It was over an hour before the game and the crowd was already going wild. As I sat in that room I could actually feel what was going on outside. My adrenalin was really flowing. And when we went outside, there was an amazing rush of feeling from the fans to the players. It was great to hear the fans backing us up like they did that day. And, of course, winning the game made everything even better.

Q. What are the prospects for this Carolina team?

A. I think we'll have a winning season. We have a very tough road schedule and our non-conference games will also be rough. But we have people who want to win badly. They don't like losing and they're working hard to win. I have high expectations. What I want more than anything else, however, is to win the ACC championship and I think we're going to do it.

Q. How do you keep in shape in the off-season?

A. I'm working on my own running and weight-lifting program. I also like basketball. That helps you because of the running involved. I don't like to just run. I need to be doing something while running. So for the last five years basketball has been my thing. You can't beat a full-court game for running.

Q. How do you see your role as a senior on this Carolina football team?

A. I think all the seniors have an important role. That's the way our system here is set up. The seniors know what is expected and we should do it. I guess you could say we set an example for the younger players.

Q. What is the most frustrating thing about playing offense?

A. I think it's just the fact that you're so constrained. On offense, you always have to be in control of yourself. On defense, you can go wild. It's okay to get knocked down on defense as long as you get up and make the tackle. You can't let that happen on offense.

Q. Does it help an offensive lineman to have a great back like Mike Voight or do you do your job the same regardless of who the runner is?

A. Having a back like Voight inspires the linemen. Looking at it from a personal point of view, it's a reflection on you when a runner gets as many yards as Voight gets. Being the player he is, Mike is going to get some yards on his own. But the linemen have got to play well for him to have a great season. If he doesn't, it's our fault.

Q. What is the most important thing that football has done for you?

A. Football relates to so many things I do that it's hard to just pick out one. In general, I think it has helped me cope with the other phases of my life. The experiences you have in football are very similar to those in life.

Q. In what ways do you feel you are improved over last season?

A. Right now I think I've improved on a couple of things, but I'm going to have to wait for the first couple of games to find out. In addition to those things, I think I'm stronger than I was last year and I hope to be heavier by the time the season starts. I'm also more experienced and I think I'll be more confident this year because of that.

Q. Is an offensive lineman able to help the man playing next to him?

A. It depends on the play. Most of the time you don't really know what the other linemen are doing unless you're double-teamming on a pass block or something like that. We try to help each other out in the line by encouraging each other in the huddle. We congratulate somebody if he makes a good block or we try to keep somebody going if he's having a bad day. Our line is a very close unit and we have a lot of pride in it.

Q. What is the toughest thing about playing college football?

A. The pressure involved with it. I put a lot of personal pressure on myself because I am an achiever and want to do well. I don't want to just be an average player, I want to make a big contribution. I feel like I'm cheating myself when I go to a lot of trouble to do something and then don't do it well. Obviously, that causes pressure.

Q. Would you ever like to be a coach?

A. I've thought about it. I think I could do it, but there's really no use in making a judgement about it until I've tried it. Relating to the players would be the hardest thing to do, I think. Sometimes I try to put myself into our coaches' shoes and I can see they have a tough job.

Q. What do you enjoy most about your position?

A. Offensive linemen don't get singled out very much, so my greatest enjoyment comes from the self-satisfaction I have after playing well. When I play well only a small number of people are going to know it. But that's an important group—my teammates and coaches. The greatest satisfaction comes when the other team knows what we're going to do, yet we still go ahead and do it. For example, on the goal line, the defense usually knows we're going straight ahead. So when we go straight ahead and get the yardage, that's an especially good feeling.

Q. What makes an offense a good one?

A. Execution. Here at Carolina we're using the same plays we used several years ago. But they work because we execute well. Sometimes I look at old films of our offensive tackles running the plays we still use. It's funny but their moves don't look like anything I do. The techniques are the same, but everybody puts an individual touch to his job.

Q. Who were the standouts in spring practice?

A. Dee Hardison. He's the first person who comes to mind. I had to try to block him and it wasn't any fun at all. Ronny Johnson also had a really good spring. He gave our defensive backfield something it really needed—someone who can intimidate people. He doesn't arm tackle anyone. He hits you. Offensively, I thought P. J. Gay and Johnny Stratton were impressive. That was good because some people were questioning our quarterbacking. And all of our offensive backs ran well.

Q. What do you like most about playing safety?

A. I get in on a lot of plays. I have a lot of responsibilities and there is plenty of action.

Q. What qualities do you have that make you a good defensive back?

A. I think I keep my head pretty well. That's very important in the secondary. I'm also aggressive and I like to hit.

Q. You come from an athletic family. Your brother Sammy was a great tailback here. Has any one person been responsible for your athletic progress?

A. No, there have really been a number of people. My father and my two brothers have probably been the greatest influence. Having Sammy as a brother has been a big help. I've also been very lucky in that all of my coaches, from little league to junior high to high school, have known football and have encouraged me to play.

Q. What is the most difficult part of a defensive player's job?

A. Concentrating on every play. In the secondary, it's hard to make every tackle or even make contact on each play. After four or five plays go away from you, you sometimes tend to lose your concentration. That's something you can't afford to do as a defensive back.

Q. Have there been times when you were nervous before a game?

A. I get nervous before every game. I wouldn't think I was ready to play unless I was nervous. But, I don't let my nerves get out of hand. I keep my feelings inside pretty well and don't show any signs of nervousness. Actually, it's more like excitement and anticipation than nervousness anyway.

Q. You were named the top hustler in spring practice for the second straight year. How would you personally evaluate your spring performance?

A. I thought I had a pretty good spring. I was moved to free safety and that's a position I really like. I'm in on more of the action and get to make more open-field tackles. I really think I'm better suited for this position than strong safety. I also thought the whole defense looked good in the spring, especially the other players in the secondary.

Q. Outside of football, what have you enjoyed most about your time in Chapel Hill?

A. The people and the atmosphere of the place. The people in Chapel Hill are really friendly. Making a lot of friends has really made my college experience more meaningful.

Q. How do you keep in shape in the off-season?

A. I try to build myself up gradually. I try to do something all summer and build up what I do each week. Most of the summer I play basketball and tennis. As practice nears, I run a lot of sprints. Backward running is very important to a defensive back, so I work on that. That's where basketball is especially helpful because you do a lot of backward running during fullcourt games.

Q. A lot of people claim that football players are set aside from the rest of the University community. Do you feel like a normal student?

A. Yes. But, I think a lot of that has to do with my size. I'm not much bigger than the average student, so I'm not noticed a lot. The bigger guys are easily identified as football players. Personally, I don't think football players are different from other students. We have a wide variety of people on our team just like the student body does.

Q. What kind of team do you think Carolina will have this fall?

A. I think we're going to have a good team. Of course, we have a tough way to open the season, playing Miami of Ohio. But if we can stay away from a lot of injuries, I think we can have a good season.

Q. What are your goals for the upcoming season?

A. I'd like to go to a bowl and get an ACC championship ring. I'd also like to make all-conference and do well enough to get a chance at pro football. But if the team does well, those personal goals should take care of themselves.

Q. What's in your future after graduation?

A. A lot depends on this year. I'd like to try pro football if I have a good season. If that doesn't work out, I might go into real estate or coaching.

Q. Last summer you had an appendectomy just before fall practice started. How much did that affect your play?

A. It really hurt my play in the first couple of games and probably set me back for the whole season. I was out of shape and had lost a lot of strength. It was a psychological setback as well as a physical one. Our third game against Ohio State may have been the best of my career here and then I played pretty well two weeks later against Notre Dame. But I would like to think that I would have played even better had it not been for the operation.

Q. What is your attitude as a senior after three years of football?

A. I just want to go out on a good note. We have the best players in the league this year. I think we can have a great season if we put everything together. The thing I want most of all though is one of those conference championship rings.

Q. Do you think the Carolina defense will be better this year?

A. Yes. Last year we were very young and now we are more experienced. I also feel that this year we will go into every game with the thought of winning and not losing. That attitude was prevalent in the spring and I think it will carry over into the fall.

Q. Who impressed you the most during the spring?

A. Defensively, I'd say Ronny Johnson had a very good spring. Rod Broadway did a good job and so did Dee Hardison. Offensively, Johnny Stratton played very well. So did P. J. Gay before he was injured. I thought Mike Voight ran better than ever and Brooks Williams made a lot of progress. I also was impressed with Chuck Austin's play after he was moved to linebacker. He's going to be a good one once he gets the feel of that position.

Q. What makes defensive end a difficult position to play?

A. You have so many things with which to be concerned. You're not just rushing every time or covering for a pass every time. Sometimes you have to play off blockers like a linebacker. Play recognition is very important. Instead of just reacting, you have to react and then know what is going to happen. For example, you might come up and hit a blocker and then drop back quickly for a pass.

Q. What appeals to you about football?

A. The competitiveness of the game. Everyone is competitive in one way or another and football is a great competitive sport. You also can express yourself on the field in a physical way. It's simply a game I enjoy very much.

Q. Does emotion play a big part in being a football player?

A. I think so. Most teams are about equal in physical ability. So the best way to get an edge is to be emotionally ready to play. I think confidence is also a part of the emotional side of football. If you have confidence, you can forget about a bad play when you make one because you know you're going to bounce back and make a good one. I didn't have confidence like that as a sophomore or very much last year. But, I had a good spring and now I don't worry about things so much. I think this kind of confidence ties in directly with being emotionally ready to play.

Q. Do you ever feel pressure during a game?

A. There is always a self-inflicted pressure from yourself, as well as from your coaches and teammates, to do well. You're always keyed up and trying to concentrate. And, of course, there are times in crucial situations when that pressure is even greater.

Q. Would you like to be a coach someday?

A. Sure. I really like young people and get along well with them. Being young myself, I think I may know more of what it's like for today's players than an older coach might. I have a good understanding of the game and I think I could get it across to players. A lot of coaches know football, but don't know how to teach it. They can't make the players see their way.

Q. Do you feel coaching films are a help to players?

A. I think so. You're so involved during a game that while you might know you made the wrong play, you might not realize what caused you to do what you did. By just looking at films, you can spot the smallest error. For example, you might be using an incorrect stance that is costing you a step or your arms might be a little too high when shedding a blocker. These are small things, but they can cause mistakes. I also think films are a very big help in checking your opponents. You can learn a lot about a man you will be playing against by just watching him on film.

Q. What was the toughest thing about coming back to play football after a year's layoff?

A. Getting in shape, I guess. That took about six months.

Q. What kind of conditioning do you do in the off-season?

A. I mainly play basketball and lift weights. I do a little bit of jogging now and then. Then about a month before practice starts, I switch from jogging to sprinting.

Q. Can you remember your feelings in your first start last year?

A. I remember that I was fairly nervous, but that's about it. I guess I had that same nervous feeling for the first two or three games. After that, I was filled more with anticipation than nervousness before a game.

Q. Were you pleased with your performance last year?

A. Yes, but I know there is still a lot of room for improvement. You can always improve your speed, quickness and agility. Plus, the more you play, the better your reactions will be. You learn to expect certain things in certain situations.

Q. Is football fun?

A. The games are fun. When you consider football in its entirety, it's really too much work to consider it fun. But, I think the games more than make up for all the work.

Q. What appeals to you most about football?

A. Getting to know the people associated with the sport.

Q. What are your main duties as a nose guard?

A. My main responsibility is to get through either of the holes between the center and the offensive guards. The problem is knowing which way the play is going so you can react and pick the right hole. You can sometimes tell the direction of the play by the way the center comes out. I try to hit the center and then have an arm's length between me and him after the initial contact. That way I can read the flow of the play and keep him off of me. Being able to disengage from contact with the center quickly is a big asset in making the defensive play for a nose guard.

Q. What is the most difficult part of a defensive player's job?

A. In my position, the pass rush. In some plays you have to go through the center, a guard and a back to get to the quarterback. Having three people blocking you can be pretty tough.

Q. Has any one person been responsible for your athletic progress?

A. No, there hasn't really been just one person who has had an influence on me. If I had to pick one person who has been more responsible than anyone else though, it would be a coach I had in grade school. He introduced me to sports and coached me in basketball and little league baseball.

Q. What was the toughest adjustment you had to make when you came to college?

A. Athletically, the biggest adjustment was going from quarterback and safety to a lineman.

Q. Outside of football, what have you enjoyed most about your time in Chapel Hill?

A. Meeting people. Chapel Hill is a great town to meet a lot of different people.

Q. What kind of season do you think Carolina will have this year?

A. With all of the people we have back, I think we should have a pretty good season.

Q. Will Carolina's defense be better this year?

A. Well, it should be better because of the added experience we have. Will it be better is a different question, however. Last year I honestly thought we were going to have a good defense. But we just didn't play as well as we should have. I think the fact that we had so few seniors on our team had a lot to do with that. We just didn't have enough leaders. I'm hoping that this year we will have the type of season we should have had last fall.

Outlook

If Miami can come up with a quaterback it should make a strong bid for an unprecedented fourth straight Mid-American Conference football championship. The Redskins return 27 lettermen, including 14 starters, from last year's 11-1 team which captured its third straight Tangerine Bowl title. Over the last three years Miami has posted a 32-1-1 record, tying Oklahoma for the best in America in that period. Top Miami returnee is all-star candidate Rob Carpenter, a tailback who ranked 13th in rushing nationally last year with 1,022 yards. The Redskin defense was second in the country against the rush last year and sixth overall.

Northwestern will be counting on an exciting and improved offense and a veteran defense to better last year's 3-8 record. The Big Ten's second leading quarterback Randy Dean will once again be passing to the league's leading receiver for the last two years, Scott Yelvington, and handing off to the Wildcats' all-time leading rusher, Greg Boykin. Dean completed 103 passes last year, 50 of them to Yelvington. Boykin ran for 1,105 yards. Tight end Dan Cleary, tackle Tony Ardizzone and center Carl Peterson anchor an experienced offensive line. All-America candidate Pete Shaw will pace the defense from his strong safety position. Middle guard Paul Maly, tackle Marty Szostak and linebackers Greg Stanley and Al Benz form a solid defensive nucleus.

DEFENSE—LE Dale Smith, LT Keith Morrissey, RT Randy Frisch, LB Tom Hodge, LB Mark Kirkpatrick, CB Bruce Carter, LS Rob Fitzgerald, RS Chuck Banta.

1975 CONFERENCE RECORD: 3-4
1975 OVERALL RECORD: 6-5

Outlook

Tigers expect to have a versatile attack, built around passing of QB Steve Pisarkiewicz, and running of tailback Curt Brown—operating behind a veteran line from tackle to tackle. New receiving corps headed by Lamont Downer, Leo Lewis, Kellen Winslow and Joe Stewart has good potential . . . Defense again questionable, with several key performers returning from knee surgery. If Tigers can find a strong noseguard, defense could be respectable . . . Rugged non-league schedule, plus Big Eight slate, again gives Mizzou a formidable challenge . . .

1975 CONFERENCE RECORD: 2-2-1
1975 OVERALL RECORD: 7-4-1

Outlook

The return of 37 lettermen should give new coach Bo Rein a very strong team at N. C. State. Quarterback Johnny Evans heads up an offense that Rein feels will be as explosive as any in Wolfpack history. Ted Brown, former defensive back Ralph Stringer, Scott Wade, Rickey Adams and Timmy Johnson are all fine runners. The line will be anchored by tackle Mike Fagan. The ends, led by Elijah Marshall, are all speedy. The Pack could have its finest defense in a decade. Key players on defense figure to be guard A. W. Jenkins, linebackers Jack Hall and Bill Cherry and safeties Richard Wheeler and Mike Miller. State's kicking game is excellent with Evans punting and Jay Sherrill handling the placements. Brown and Stringer will be the return specialists.

1975 CONFERENCE RECORD: 4-2-0
1975 OVERALL RECORD: 8-3-0

Outlook

With the return of 17 starters, eight on offense and nine on defense, prospects are very good for another strong football team at East Carolina. Experienced players return at every position, although depth could be a problem. A very quick defensive team will be led by safety Jim Bolding (who led the nation in interceptions last year) and end Gary Godette. Other key players on defense include linebackers Harold Randolph and Harold Fort, tackle Jake Dove, end Zack Valentine and backs Ernest Madison and Reggie Pinkney. Offensively, the wishbone should be better than ever with the return of quarterback Mike Weaver. Willie Hawkins and Eddie Hicks are excellent backs and the offensive line is a veteran one.

1975 CONFERENCE RECORD: 3-3
1975 OVERALL RECORD: 3-8

Outlook

Wake Forest returns 17 starters from last year's 3-8 team. Three of those eight losses came in the final 90 seconds of play. Heading the list of returnees are free safety Bill Armstrong and all-purpose halfback John Zeglinski. The defense returns eight starters, and with added depth and experience, should be greatly improved. Other key figures on defense are tackle Bruce Hopkins, end Dave LaCrosse and back Ed McDonald. The offense averaged over 20 points a game last fall and returns Zeglinski, who was fifth nationally in all-purpose running. The Deacs have two experienced quarterbacks in Jerry McManus and Mike McGlamry and are deep in receivers. The offensive line is anchored by tackle Jackie Robinson, center Larry Tearry and guard Randy Woodle.

Outlook

In Red Parker's fourth year at the helm of Clemson football, the Tigers will field a young shade of the Clemson orange as just 14 of the returning 38 lettermen fall into the senior category. Parker will be trying to regroup the Tigers after a season of 2-9 during 1975. On the offensive side, Parker will try to mold the attack around a group of three quarterbacks, Mike O'Cain, Steve Fuller, and Willie Jordan, and must replace TE Bennie Cunningham. As for defense, Parker has seen almost the entire defensive secondary graduate and will have to find some replacements in this area. DT Jeff Mills and LB Ronnie Smith return to anchor those two spots for Parker's Tigers.

1975 CONFERENCE RECORD: 0-5

Outlook

Virginia, under new head coach Dick Bestwick, will be improved in every respect in 1976. Four solid running backs in David Sloan, Billy Copeland, Joe Sroba and Billy Harris, split end Tommy Fadden, and a strong kicking game with punter Russ Henderson and kicker Joe Jenkins, are all pluses. The Cavaliers have good overall experience, but strength in numbers and quality backup people are badly needed. Overall team speed is a problem along with inexperience at offensive tackle and an unsettled quarterback situation. More intensity and concentration must come from the defense and poise developed offensively. The attitude and enthusiasm was established during spring drills and that's where it all starts.

Outlook

After the strongest ACC finish in over a decade the Blue Devils expect to once again challenge for the conference title with the return of center Billy Bryan, Jacobs Blocking Trophy winner in 1976. Behind Bryan the Blue Devils return their whole starting backfield including 2nd team freshman all-America QB Mike Dunn. The defense should be the quickest in McGee's tenure and will be built around a strong linebacking corps and an experience defensive secondary. Top returnees on defense are linebacker Carl McGee and all-ACC defensive back Bob Grupp. Vince Fusco and Grupp should provide a very solid kicking game.

Kenan Stadium

Nestled among the tall pine trees near the center of the Carolina campus is Kenan Stadium—home of the Tar Heels.

For 49 years the Carolina football team has fought its Saturday battles in this beautiful natural valley. This is where the action is—the color, the motion and the pageantry of Carolina football.

Kenan Stadium is generally referred to as one of the most beautiful football arenas in the country. Some say it is THE most beautiful. Little can be done to enhance its natural beauty. In fact, most of the work on the stadium has been directed toward keeping up the natural setting.

William Rand Kenan, Jr. deserves the credit for making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and was an 1894 graduate of the University. The late Mr. Kenan, who died in 1966, was an international industrialist. He discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry.

The stadium was constructed as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. It was dedicated Nov. 12, 1927 and Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, in the first game played there.

The stadium had a capacity of 24,000 that first year. However, in later years, Mr. Kenan added portable stands in the end zones and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, bringing the capacity to 47,000.

Six years ago, standing-room tickets were sold for games with South Carolina and Duke and attendance reached an all-time high of 48,500. That record was broken last season when 50,500 fans saw the Tar Heels play Notre Dame.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Mr. Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

Six games are scheduled for Kenan Stadium this fall. The Tar Heels will battle traditional rivals N. C. State, Virginia and Duke and outside foes Miami of Ohio, Northwestern and East Carolina.

For these games, students, faculty, alumni and fans will converge on the stadium. They will enjoy football at its finest in a stadium that is magnificent.

Educational Foundation

Ernie Williamson

The man who stands at the helm of the Educational Foundation is popular and capable Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

The former star Carolina tackle is one of the most active individuals on the Tar Heel sports scene. He's constantly on the go—talking with Foundation members, speaking to prospective members or avidly following all of Carolina's athletic teams.

Williamson is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va. played one season of football here under the late Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding tackle.

He was lured away to professional football and played with Los Angeles and Washington before a knee injury ended his career

Ernie returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He returned to Carolina in 1957 to accept his present position. At one time he also served as a recruiter for the Tar Heel football team.

He is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, and a daughter, Carole.

As the Tar Heel sports program has grown through the years, the Foundation has done likewise. It is the enthusiasm and generosity of Foundation members which allows Carolina to field its excellent athletic teams.

"Interest reaches a new peak every year," says Ernie Williamson, the Foundation's executive vice-president. "There are many reasons for this, but the most important has been our great success in all sports the last few years."

The Educational Foundation currently has over 2,500 members who finance a scholarship program that costs over $700,000 a year.

"Since its inauguration in 1938, the Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 2,200 student-athletes," says Williamson. "The majority of these athletes are anxious to return contributions which would enable us to award scholarships to others."

Williamson has always contended that a donation to the Foundation is not specifically a donation to athletics. He says that the high caliber young athlete who is awarded a scholarship is a great representative of the University.

Williamson feels the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young student obtain a college education. Athletics come second.

Any donation to the Educational Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $100 or more.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and has been quite successful.

"We have life members of $10,000 and $25,000, endowed scholarships of $50,000 and have just recently enlisted 100 members who have purchased $50,000 scholarships through life insurance," says Williamson. "Several members have also indicated they have included the Foundation in their wills and bequests to enable continued success in the future."

Foundation members receive priority on seat locations in football and basketball. A special room on the south wing of Kenan Field House serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge and picnic facilities for those who come early.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," Williamson points out. "Many of our finest members did not attend Carolina, however. They just heard about our program and felt it was worthy."

It is important to point out that all donations to the Foundation are tax deductible.

ORIGIN AND INCORPORATION

Three loyal and athletic-minded University of North Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure at Raleigh in December of 1938 and organized the Educational Foundation, Inc.

The men were John Umstead, Jr. of Chapel Hill, Max Abernethy of Raleigh, and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn with these three men as the incorporators and submitted to the late O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Department as a chantable organization. The charter was issued December 7, 1938.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Educational Foundation, Inc., is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability.

The Educational Foundation, Inc. operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation, and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

The full amount of all donations of Foundation members is used for scholarships and grants. The organization has no administrative expense.

Basketball Prospectus 1976-77

With four starters returning from last year's great team, the North Carolina Tar Heels are hopeful that 1976-77 will be another excellent season on the basketball court.

Carolina posted a sensational 25-4 record a year ago, including an 11-1 mark and a first-place finish in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular season race. The Tar Heels now have an incredible string of 10 straight years in which they have finished either first or second in the ACC standings. Carolina once again finished in the nation's Top Ten.

"I think we can again have an outstanding team," says Carolina Coach Dean Smith. "However, it will be nearly impossible for us to equal last year's great record. We play an extremely difficult schedule and we have lost three valuable players to graduation."

Gone from last year's team are All-America Mitch Kupchak, one of the best frontcourt players in ACC history, and two key reserves, Bill Chambers and Dave Hanners. Kupchak had a brilliant Carolina career. His rebounding, defense and leadership will be hard to replace.

However, the Tar Heels do return four starters. They are All-America guard Phil Ford, a 6-2 junior from Rocky Mount, N. C.; Walter Davis, 6-5 senior forward from Pineville, N. C.; John Kuester, 6-2 senior guard from Richmond, Va.; and Tommy LaGarde, 6-10 senior frontcourt player from Detroit, Mich.

Ford and Kuester form one of the finest backcourts in the nation. Phil made almost every All-America team last year as a sophomore. He led the Tar Heels with a school record 203 assists, averaged 18.6 points per game, hit 53.2 per cent of his field goals and made 78.0 per cent of his foul shots. He is an excellent ballhandler and a good defensive player.

Kuester ranked second to Ford in assists with 154. He also was voted Carolina's best defensive player. John is a good outside shooter and ballhandler.

"I expect both Phil and John to show even more improvement this year," says Smith. "I also feel that LaGarde and Davis, who had what I consider sensational years last season, will be better."

LaGarde led Carolina in both field goal and free throw shooting last season. He had a percentage of 61.2 from the field and 80.9 from the line. He grabbed 221 rebounds in 29 games and averaged 14.4 points per contest. He also did a good job defensively. LaGarde will move to Kupchak's old position this year and his rebounding total should increase.

Davis had a great all-around year. He was Carolina's overall statistical leader and a second-team All-ACC selection. Walter was third on the team in scoring, rebounding and assists, had a team-high 71 steals, shot 54.1 per cent from the floor and 77.7 from the line and played excellent defense.

Carolina's other returning players are 6-8 senior Bruce Buckley of Bladensburg, Md.; 6-6 senior Woody Coley of Lumberton, N. C.; 6-5 junior Tom Zaliagiris of Livonia, Mich.; 6-5 sophomore Dudley Bradley of Edgewood, Md.; 6-0 sophomore Ged Doughton of Winston-Salem, N. C.; and 6-4 sophomore Randy Wiel of Curacao in the Netherlands Antilles.

Doughton and Wiel played mainly on the junior varsity last season, while the other returnees saw action with Carolina's Blue Team.

"Buckley, Chambers, Zaliagiris, Bradley, Coley and Hanners gave us good depth last year," says Smith. "With Bill and Dave gone, that depth must be bolstered by our incoming freshman class."

The freshmen include 6-1 Dave Colescott of Marion, Ind.; 6-9 Steve Krafcisin of Oak Lawn, Ill.; 6-6 Mike O'Koren of Jersey City, N. J.; 6-4 John Virgil of Elm City, N. C.; 6-10 Jeff Wolf of Kohler, Wis.; and 6-9 Rich Yonakor of Euclid, Ohio.

The fifth starting spot in the Tar Heel lineup could go to Buckley or one of Carolina's big freshmen. Buckley was the top frontcourt reserve last year and showed good promise with his consistently strong play.

Carolina will be trying to uphold a great basketball tradition this season. The Tar Heels rank with UCLA and Marquette as the three winningest teams in America in the past decade.

In that 10-year period, Smith has coached his teams to 246 victories. Only Al McGuire of Marquette (248) has won more. Smith has won more ACC championships (five) than any coach in the league's storied history.

Although Carolina won the ACC regular-season title by four games last year, Smith feels the league race will be closer this season.

"Despite the fact we were 11-1 last year and the second-place teams were each 7-5, I still think we had good balance in the ACC," he says. "Most of the games were very close and that should be the case again this season.

"In addition to the ACC games, we also face a very tough non-conference schedule. It will be even more difficult than last year because every opponent is consistently strong. There may be only one game on our schedule in which we will be heavily favored."
